Old Traditions New Ideas

A dream begins all things.

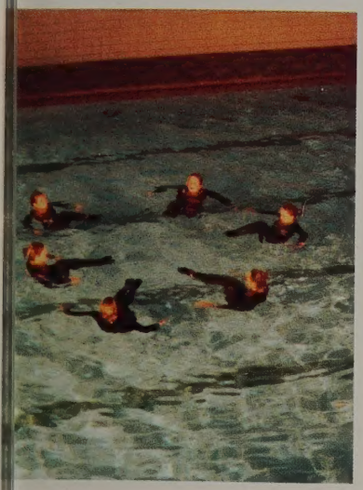

The founders of these United States of America began with a dream of freedom. They ensured this freedom through the creation of the Constitution. This year we celebrate the 200th Anniversary of this great document.

Grove City College also began with a dream. Dr. Isaac C. Ketler had a dream of an institution to provide exceptional education, in a wholesome environment, with beautiful surroundings, and at a reasonable cost. Through the efforts of Dr. Isaac C. Ketler, Dr. Weir C. Ketler, and many more, that dream became reality.

The establishment of such dreams, as mentioned above, sets forth traditions. The Constitution and Grove City College were made not for yesterday but for today and for tomorrow. Freedom of religion is why the Puritans came to America. This freedom and many others are ensured in our Constitution. The founding fathers also outlined the organization of government. This arrangement has held strong and continues to even today. Grove City College has traditions also. Chapel attendance is one most noted by Grovers. A close second is Saturday classes. These customs may cause grumbles at times, yet overall these traditions create finer individuals.

Each individual has a dream. As these dreams become reality, let the traditions set forth before them help mold the traditions they will form.

Old Traditions New Ideas

From dreams one establishes foundations

These foundations must be strong to support the traditions they will create, however, they must also be flexible to withstand the new ideas and interpretations that will be linked to them. Grove City College is a strong beginning for individuals, just as the Constitution of these United States of America is a firm base for this nation.

The Supreme Court, and all courts, interpret our Constitution as best they can. Today's interpretations and applications are different than they were 200 years ago when the Constitution was formed. The base remains unchanged; the circumstances now differ. These changing times are what bring about Amendments to the Constitution. Clarification, through Amendments, assists interpretation.

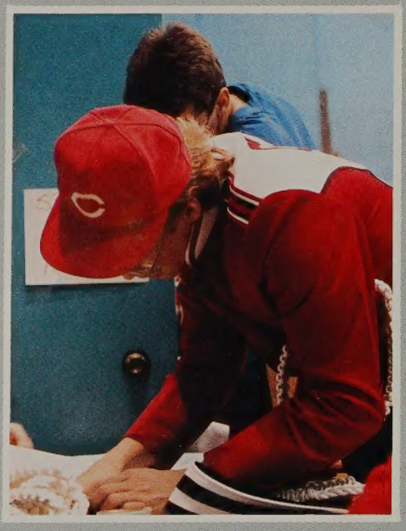

Grove City College also grows with new ideas. Presently we are seeing this growth in the development of the Physical Learning Center. We also see activities changing. The most noticeable is pledging, now called gadding. A new way of coming together for sororities and fraternities has been established.

Changes are inevitable. The change we pray will always be for the better. Now, let us look to each new idea as a new dream and the beginning of another tradition.

In Honor Of

"Weir C. Ketler devoted his life to Grove City College . . . He has influenced the lives and character of succeeding generations of young men and women to a degree which cannot be measured by any human standard. We are confident that when the history of American institutions of learning is written, it will be recorded that few men concerned with education have accomplished so much."

These words were written for Weir C. Ketler's fortieth anniversary as president of Grove City College in 1956 and reproduced in the Alumni News in 1988.

Weir Carlyle Ketler was born in Blacktown, on March 14, 1889. He was the son of Grove City College's founder and first president, Dr. Isaac C. Ketler, and Matilda Gilson Ketler. Grove City became his home. He attended elementary and high school in the Grove City Public Schools. Following high school graduation he attended Grove City College. Upon graduating in 1908 he joined the faculty here. He also continued his education, receiving a second degree from Yale in 1910.

Beginning in 1914 as assistant to the president, Weir C. Ketler stepped into the president's position in 1915 upon the death of Dr. Alexander T. Ormond. This in itself gave Dr. Ketler a reputation not soon to be forgotten. He was the youngest college president, at age 27, to be recognized in the country. It was a difficult time, but this did not deter him. Through two World Wars, the Korean Conflict, and three depressions, he strove to achieve many goals. We can see the effects of his work in what he believed was his greatest achievement-the carrying out of the upper campus development. What is known today as the Quad came from a dream, Dr. Weir C. Ketler's dream, and it will be remembered in each of our dreams.

Dr. Ketler was not only president of Grove City College but also a husband. He married Ellen Bell on August 26, 1914. She died May 10, 1968. He was then remarried on February 14, 1970, to Edna Taylor Johnstone. Dr. Ketler's family includes one daughter, two sons, one stepson, one stepdaughter, nine grandchildren, and thirteen great-grandchildren.

Many outward signs of success mark the life of Dr. Weir C. Ketler. He did, however, so much more in the lives of the people he met. As Dr. Dwight R. Guthrie recalled at the memorial service: Micah 6:8-"What does the Lord require of you, but to do justly, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God." This is what Weir C. Ketler did and encouraged everyone else to do.

Though some old traditions have brought new ideas and interpretations, the College stands on a solid base. "The original purpose of the College," wrote Dr. Ketler, "to provide exceptional educational advantages amid beautiful surroundings in a wholesome environment and at a reasonable cost, has not been sacrificed."

The 1922 Ouija stated, "We dedicate this book to Dr. Weir C. Ketler, the president of our College. He is loved as a friend among the students, admired as a scholar among his colleagues and honored as a man among men." We, The 1988 Bridge, again dedicate this book to Dr. Weir Carlyle Ketler. He has given each life he touched something special. This is only a small remembrance of a great man. Thank you Dr. Ketler for bringing your dreams together with our dreams and creating a beautiful reality.

Seniors

"The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America" US Constitution

Reflecting and anticipating set the seniors apart from all others. For those graduating in 1988, emotions are jumbled. Their time at Grove City College has come to a close. In looking back, they see smiles and tears; looking forward provides happiness and fears. A new stage of life is beginning.

As we progress to new goals, let us not forget that under God, and the Constitution of the United States, we are equal. William Paterson held this belief also. He was one of five representatives to the Constitutional Convention from New Jersey, where he cowrote the "New Jersey Plan." The plan called for equal representation of the large and small states in government. His goal was attained; the Senate represents each state equally. William Paterson went on to serve in the Senate from 1789 until 1790.

The graduating seniors, like William Paterson, have set their goals. Now having attained one, they are on the road to another. Continuing their hard work will bring achievement and new goals.

The weekend of October 17 and 18 was filled with the activity of the 1987 Grove City College Homecoming. The campus was alive with returning alumni, proud parents, and the hustle and bustle of the Homecoming Committee.

Some highlights of the weekend included the traditional parade through town. This Homecoming's parade theme was cartoon characters and featured floats by fraternities, sororities, and housing groups and also featured the Greek's sweethearts. Winners of the parade were the brothers of Pan Sophic and the sisters of Gamma Chi with their "Hagar the Horrible" float. The parade was followed by the football game at Thorne Field against Bethany College. Half-time activities included the presentation of the 1987 Homecoming Court consisting of Tammy Bice, Amy Borremans, Tammy Leonard, Cindy Osborne, and Valerie Verner. This event was highlighted by the crowning of Homecoming Queen-Amy Borremans.

The rest of the weekend provided visitors with time to inspect the construction of the new Physical Learning Center, attend alumni dinners, and reflect back on memories cherished of past days at Grove City College.

Special recognition should be given to the officers of the Homecoming Committee, who through much dedication and hard work, made this years event as successful and memorable as ever.

Welcome Parents
Parents' Weekend 1988

Touring choir members take turns directing in Dr. Browne's absence.

Parents' Weekend 1988 was a success. Friday night began the many activities of the weekend. The Symphonic Band performed for a full auditorium and Ketler Rec packed in many students for the Spring Dance.

Saturday continued the festivities. The Air Force ROTC passed in review and held an open house. Recognition Convocation followed with many honors being presented to various students. The highest honors, Senior Man and Woman of the Year, were received by Richard S. Hangliter and Tammy L. Bice, respectively.

Rick majored in international business and German. He was president of the Student Government Association, Chairman of Operation Top Management, and captain of the golf team. He participated in Orientation Board, received the John N. Calderwood Scholarship as outstanding senior male, and was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa and Who's Who.

Tammy majored in Christian ministries and religion. She directed the New Grace Singers, was a Resident Assistant, and was 1987 Homecoming parade chairman and a member of the Homecoming and May courts. She also participated in Orientation Board, was on the program committee, was music coordinator for Salt Company, and was a 1987 Red Box Summer Missionary to Japan. A Samuel Robinson Scholarship recipient, Tammy was elected to Mortar Board, Crown and Sceptre, Scroll and Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Who's Who.

The day continued with varsity sports, the college Jazz Ensemble, and the May Pageant which highlighted the afternoon. This year was the fourteenth anniversary of the returning of the Queens. Helena Stevenson, the 1927 Queen of the May, was the oldest returning queen. She along with 20 others participated in this year's pageant.

All-College Sing finished off a beautiful day. The groups did a good job. Independent Men's first place went to Satyriasis; Alpha Epsilon Chi placed second. Les Chanteuses captured the Independent Women's plaque. First place for fraternities went to Delta Iota Kappa, and Omicron Xi took second. The sisters of Sigma Theta Chi achieved first place for sororities with Alpha Beta Tau second and Delta Chi Omega a close third.

The weekend's success was due to the efforts of many students and faculty. Special thanks goes to the coordinator of the weekend, Ms. Cynthia Walters. Thank you to each of the students and parents for making Parent's Weekend 1988 the best.

Commencement 1988

Commencement took place on May 14, 1988, in the Grove City College Arena. As the administration and faculty led the class of 1988 into the arena many proud parents, friends, and fiances tried to find their someone special. After the graduates had been seated and beginning exercises finished, President Charles S. MacKenzie introduced the speaker.

Dr. Thomas Sowell, economic advisor to the President of the United States, spoke on "Morality versus Sanctimony." Sanctimony, he reminded us, is easy to come by, but you must work at morality. He also encouraged the graduates to be fair in their dealings with people. And, to remember who it is that decides the winners and losers.

There were 483 winners also called graduates on that beautiful Saturday. There were three outstanding honors: Doctor of Literature Honoris Causa was awarded to Ernest Gordon; the speaker, Thomas Sowell, accepted the award of Doctor of Laws Honoris Causa; Christian W. Matthews was awarded Doctor of Divinity Honoris Causa. Fourteen graduates were commissioned into the United States Air Force and three into the United States Army.

The day closed with the singing of the Alma Mater. Dr. Morledge gave the benediction, and then rejoicing could be heard as the graduates filed for the last time as students out of the Grove City College Arena.

Sportsman And Sportswoman

Ms. Cynthia Walters, Jeff Hinebaugh, Anne Kister, and Mr. Jack Behringer

Academic All-American tennis player Anne Kister and soccer team tri-captain Jeffrey Hinebaugh were named Sportswoman and Sportsman of the Year, respectively, at Grove City College's annual spring sports banquet.

Kister was one of 10 women in the nation to be named to the 1987 GTE Academic All-America At-Large Team last July and was Grove City College's first female to attain first team Academic All-America status.

Anne has been a member of the GCC women's tennis team for four years, compiling a singles record of 33-6 and doubles record of 38-1. After winning the singles title last fall, Anne was named most valuable player in the Presidents' Athletic Conference and MVP for Grove City College.

For the past two years, she has served as captain of the women's tennis team and has been named to the Presidents' Athletic Conference first team.

She had been elected to Omicron Delta Kappa leadership honorary, Mortar Board, Scroll and Key, and was the president of Kappa Mu Epsilon mathematics honorary. She was also a member of the Alpha Beta Tau social sorority, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Women's Athletic Association.

A mathematics and secondary education major, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grim of Hanover. She graduated from South Western High School in 1984.

Jeff, a junior, was named a co-director of the 1988 Grove City College Indoor Soccer Tournament and has been selected a team tri-captain for the 1988 fall season.

An accounting/history/pre-law major, Jeff has been named a Presidential Scholar four times and to the Dean's List with Distinction once. He has been elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, Delta Mu Delta business honorary, Pi Gamma Mu social science honorary, Pi Alpha Theta history honorary, the Round Table sophomore men's academic honorary, and to Who's Who.

His many activities at GCC include the Phi Tau Alpha social fraternity (rush chairman and chaplain), the Accounting Society, New Life Christian Outreach, the college discipline committee, and The Collegian, campus newspaper.

A 1985 graduate of Granville (Ohio) High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hinebaugh of Granville.

Intramural Sports

Women's Track And Field

The Grove City College women's track team, just in its second season, is definitely hot. This year, in 10 of the 16 events, GCC records have been broken. Coach Jordan commented that there has been "marked improvement over last season," although last season was an impressive one also.

Of the 21 member team, only three are seniors. These seniors, Becky Matscherz, Kristi Weygandt, and Lea Guiney, are all top performers in their respective events and will be greatly missed next year. However, Patti Brain, the team's Most Valuable Player, will be returning next year along with several other strong team members.

The team won three of their five meets this season, an improvement over last year's two out of four. A conference record in the javelin was made by senior, Becky Matscherz this year and the Lady Wolverines came in third at the PAC meet, their season closer.

The Grove City College women's track team is definitely a top contender and will continue to be so next year.

Golf

The Grove City College golf team was able to tee off the 1988 season resulting in a dramatic improvement from a two year losing streak. With two wins and one loss, the golf team, led by sophomore Todd Thomas, was placed in contention for the PAC Championship.

At the Presidents' Athletic Conference match, the team fared well against several competitors. Even with their talent, unity and leadership, the team fell short of capturing the PAC title by placing third.

Outstanding performances are marked by each member of the team. Because of his participation, performance, and leadership, senior Rick Hangliter was nominated for Grove City College's Sportsman of the Year.

This season has been successful for the entire team offering a culmination to the career of Coach Allen. At the completion of the 1988 academic year, Coach Allen will retire after 34 years of service to the college and 23 years as golf team coach. His service and guidance has been appreciated by the college and the team members that he has led.

A change in style was in order for the 1987-88 Grove City College Cheerleaders. This change occured after partner-stunts, pyramids, and gymnastics were prohibited due to the enforcement of stricter safety regulations and guidelines. There may have been a loss of stunts for the cheerleaders, but there was no loss of SPIRIT!

In response to the safety regulations, a more collegiate style was developed by the squad. The cheerleaders incorporated sharper moves with increased precision. More dance routines were also performed to the music played by the band. The cheerleaders, along with 'Willie the Wolverine,' were able to get the crowd and band more involved in the game by the use of signs, balloons, and overall spirit and pep.

Another major change this year was that only one squad was chosen to cheer for all three sports: football, soccer, and basketball. Instead of having separate cheering squads as in the past years, the best talent and skill was combined to produce an outstanding 1987-88 cheerleading squad. This year's cheerleaders were: Co-captains Tina Kelly and Heather Musko, Dorrie Hutchin, Denise Smith, Linda Pasquale, Susan Weibel, Todd Slack, Jeff Foisel, Leigh Grandizio, Liz Smith as 'Willie the Wolverine.'

Men's Track And Field

Grove City College comes in a close second.

Senior track and field men graduate with a 22-3 record, three PAC relay wins, and two PAC Championships. This year's Conference Championship featured first place victories by junior Jeff Cass (100m and 200m dash), and junior Dave Cannon (110m high hurdles). Cannon previously broke GCC's track record in the 110m high hurdles and the 400m intermediate hurdles in the meet against CMU. In the Championship meet, Cannon broke his own 400m hurdle record finishing second in the conference. GCC varsity records were also broken at the conference meet by senior Vern Anderson in the 10,000m run, and by senior Rex Harpst in the 5,000m run. Their runs finished second and third respectively in the conference. Although he finished third behind Anderson, Harpst's time in the 10,000m run was also better than the old record. Seniors Brian Shoemaker and Tim Sheppard also finished well at the conference meet setting their personal best times.

The senior field men also finished well at the PAC Championship. Pole vaulters Don Anthony and Stan Schubel reached a height of 13'6" attempting to go for the varsity record. Ted Johnson finished second in the conference in the long jump, and Dave Felty finished fifth in the javelin.

Coach Longnecker was pleased with the season commenting that everyone had outstanding performances at the PAC championships "where they reached their fullest potential with personal bests."

This season marked the 17th straight year the track and field team has gone without a losing record.

Softball

The 1988 Lady Wolverine softball team made their mark with another outstanding season. Led by Coach Don Lyle, the women went to the PACs coming out with the best record ever in Grove City College history. The Wolverines ended the regular season 18-6 overall and 8-2 in the conference. Coach Lyle sites the success of the team as their commitment to teamwork.

Seniors Tammy Leonard (co-captain), Debbie Poland (co-captain), Sheri Druckenbrod (catcher), Beth McCandless (centerfield), and Jill Taylor (outfielder) set an outstanding example for the underclassmen. In the seven that made the conference honors, four of them were seniors. Making the first team was Michelle Kirin (a sophomore pitcher who was also most valuable player), Tammy Leonard, Debbie Poland, and Beth McCandless. Sheri Druckenbrod, and juniors Janene Hess and Holly Budzinski made their mark by achieving second team status.

Two other outstanding achievements on the team include a no hitter against W & J made by a sophomore back-up pitcher, Jackie Bell; and highest batting average of .400 achieved by Tammy Leonard.

Although they came in second in the PACs the 1988 Lady Wolverines softball team had an outstanding season. With all the hard work and long hours, the girls stuck it out and made a great impression on the GCC fans.

Baseball

Most of the Grove City College sports teams considered 1987-88 a year of rebuilding. Coach Behringer would have to agree that this was the case for the men's baseball team. This year's men of the diamond worked hard and pulled together as a team. They could not seem to reach the upper hand.

About mid-season, however, they did have a winning streak. After loosing their first game with Thiel, they came back and won the second game. They went on to beat Bethany and Hiram in both games of those doubleheaders.

A weakness they are hoping to correct next year is the depth of their pitching staff. This year's men's baseball team had a tough season with only eight wins and twice as many losses. But, there is always hope. As they look forward to 1988-89, they hope to increase the depth in their pitching staff and increase their number of wins while decreasing their number of losses.

Women's Tennis

The 1987 Lady Wolverine's Tennis Team continued their fine winning tradition by adding yet another season of success to their record—an undefeated season.

Under the coaching of Miss Zbell, the ladies faced and defeated such tough opponents as Westminster, Slippery Rock, Edinboro, John Carroll and Thiel.

Special recognition was once again given to team captain and the team's only senior, Anne Kister. In 1987 Anne was named to the Academic All-American First Team; this was her second year on the Academic team.

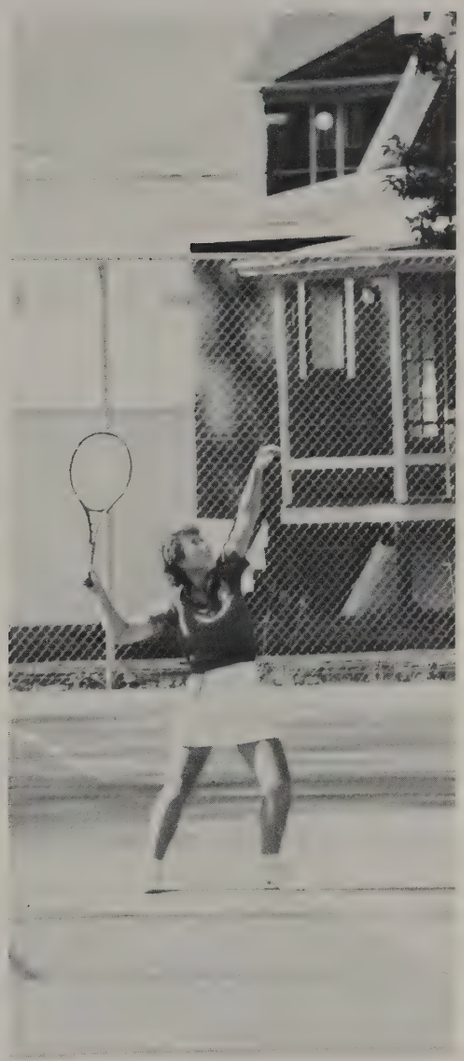

Next year's team will be coming back as strong as ever due to the depth and ability of its remaining players. Congratulations, ladies on a stunning season!

Men's Tennis

"Grovermania is runnin' wild." The Wolverine Men's Tennis Team ran to a 3 win-5 loss record this year. With only three returning lettermen, the team set out to do "the best they could," in this rebuilding year.

The team's highlights were an 8-1 ace over Thiel, a 5-4 rally over Behrend, and a smooth 5-4 passing shot over Hiram. At the 1988 Presidents' Athletic Conference Tournament, the second doubles team of junior, Mike Frailey, and freshman, Scott Chamberlain, upset the first seeded doubles team to make it into finals.

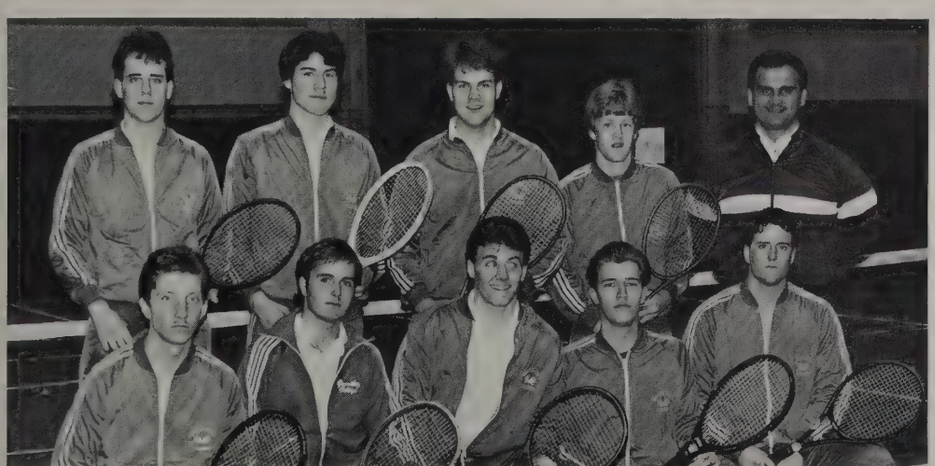

Coach Walters said that the eight men on his squad were very committed and they sacrificed much time. He also mentioned that the most improved player this year was senior, Tim Christian, and the top point getter was freshman, Scott Chamberlain. The men are looking forward to next year and to get more "cash" shots.

Swimming

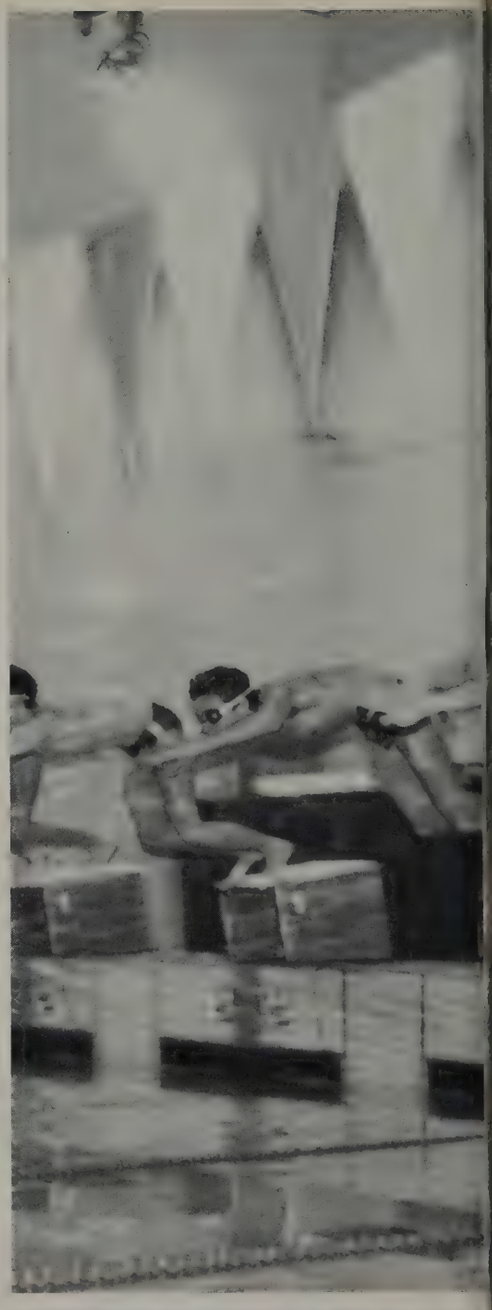

Coach Jim Longenecker and his Water Wolverines continued their winning tradition in the 1988 season. The swimmers had a year of rebuilding and recruiting, but they did just fine. This year's team finished second in the Presidents' Athletic Conference with eight wins and two losses. It was the 32nd consecutive winning season for Coach Longnecker.

This year also brought a record setting team. The team of Doug Oyler, Chris Johnson, Ken Petrie, and Jack Barnes set a new record for the 200 yard medley relay. These men were an inspiring lead for the entire team.

The ring of winning continued from last year. The Water Wolverines achieved a 22 meet winning streak before being defeated by Carnegie Mellon. That loss shook their confidence as they finished the season losing to Fredonia and skimming a win past John Carroll.

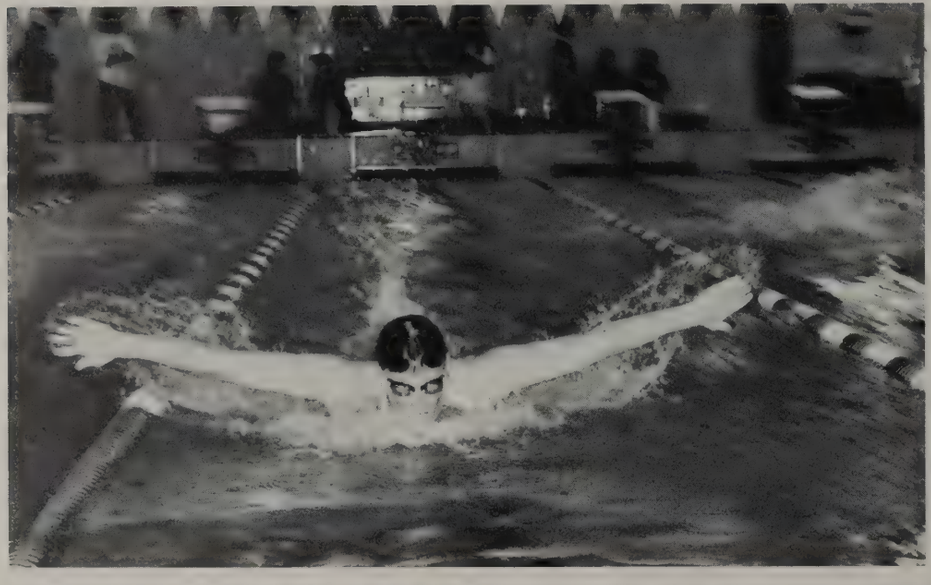

Overall the 1988 season for the swim team was a success. They have looked at their strengths and weaknesses and are looking forward to 1989 when hopes of regaining the PAC crown may come true.

Okay girls, listen up.

Manager: Amy Hinkel.

Up, up, round the rim, come on Christine, sink it in!

Manager: Nancy Miller.

The Grove City College Women's Basketball team spent the 1987-88 season rebuilding the team. The group lost four starters to graduation, but under the leadership of coach Susan K. Roberts and captain Patty Brain, the young team learned sportsmanship and perseverence. The Wolverines finished the season with a record of 7-15 overall and 5-7 in the Presidents' Athletic Conference. Although they did not achieve a winning season, these women never gave up and always played well as a team.

Rebounding was one of the squad's greatest strengths. The Wolverines were ranked first in the PAC's in team rebounding and outrebounded their opponents by 10.5 rebounds per game. One of four returning lettermen, junior Carolyn Cochrane was named to the All-PAC first team by conference coaches. She also received the distinction of being placed sixth on the list of all-time high scorers.

This season was not always an easy one for the Wolverines. The team was young and lacked experience at the college level, but they accomplished a rebuilding that will carry them well-prepared into the next season.

Manager: David Mitchell.

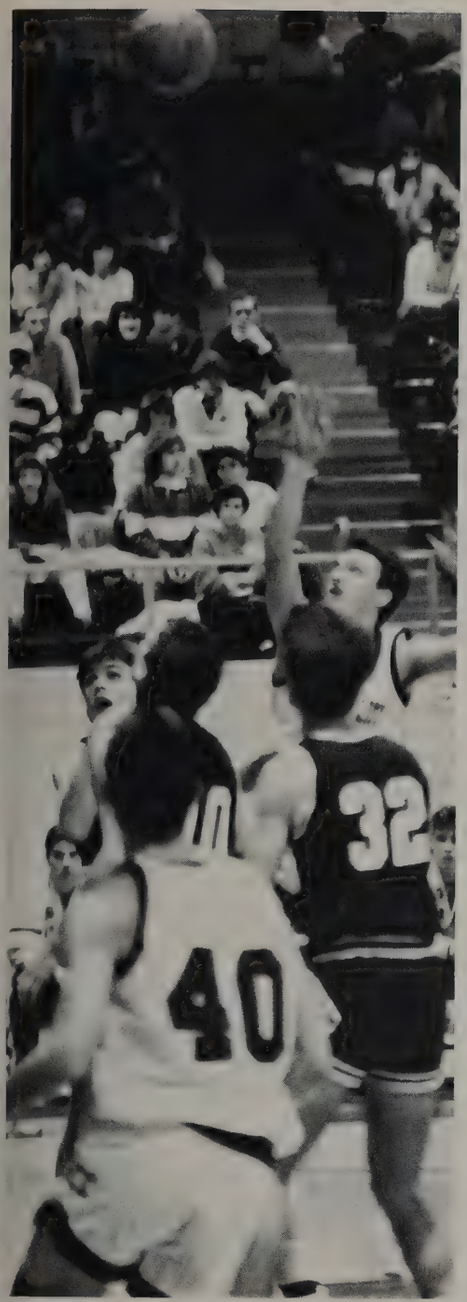

Deron Ryan scored his 1,000th point against W&J. He was inducted into the 1,000 Point Club by Mr. R. Jack Behringer.

Get that rebound.

Steve Carlson shoots for Grove City.

After a slow start, the Gove City College men's basketball team won nine of their last 13 games. The Wolverines completed their third straight season at .500 with an 11-11 record.

It also marked the second consecutive season that the Wolverines concluded Presidents' Athletic Conference (PAC) play with an 8-4 tally and finished in second place.

On February 29, the coaches of the PAC selected junior Joe Buckley to the first team All-PAC and senior Deron Ryan to the second team. These two All-Conference selections contributed to a season of many coincidences. Buckley and Ryan both finished the season with 352 points to lead the scoring. Buckley led the team, however, in scoring average with 16.8 points per game because he sat out one game due to an injury. This season was a three points per game improvement for Buckley as he averaged 13.1 ppg last year.

Ryan also improved over last season as he scored 16.0 points per game. The senior ended his four-year career with 1,205 points and now ranks fifth on Grove City College's all-time scoring list.

There was another category where the team high was held by two people. Buckley and freshman Kevin Hess tied for total rebounds with 128 on the year. Buckley led all season, but Hess became the team's rebounding machine as he received game high honors the last six games of the season.

Coach John Barr was very pleased with the play of his Wolverines and is looking forward to next season's team which will lose only one starter and will return a nucleus for a team that will again be in the race for the PAC championship.

Men's Cross Country

The Malone Invitational was the scene of victory for the men of Grove City College. They defeated four Division II teams and lost to only one Division III team. The tri-captains were chosen after that meet. Tim Sheppard, Rex Harpst and John Henne were picked to lead the team in 1987. The Harriers took second place at the P.A.C. Championship meet in Cleveland. John Henne, Vern Anderson and Rex Harpst were all top ten finishers. Allentown was the host of the NCAA Mid-East Regional Qualifier where the men placed eleventh out of twenty-six teams. They finished their season with a record of 9-3.

It was a successful season for the Lady Wolverines. The team's Cindy Langwig broke two records and holds the G.C.C. course record with a time of 20:52. They took second place at the P.A.C. Championships with Cindy Langwig finishing first overall. Verity Crowston and Beth Barker were also top ten finishers. Capturing fourth and fifth place for Grove City were Patty Brain and Amy Pferdehirt. Grove City was well represented at the NCAA Mid-East Regional Qualifier. The women captured ninth place overall against nineteen other colleges. Their long time rival Carnegie Mellon was their victim, suffering a loss by 56 points. Langwig qualified for the national meet in Michigan where she finished 44th.

Women's Volleyball

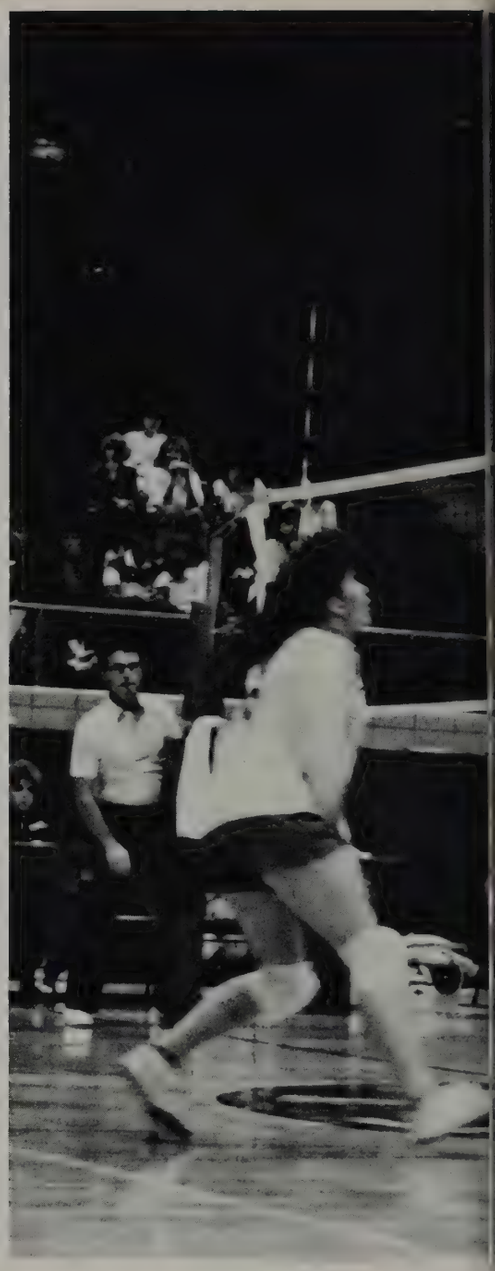

The Lady Wolverines won their third consecutive PAC championship this year. The team, undefeated in the PAC, finished with a 27-9 record. Co-captains Kristi Weygandt and Becki Matscherz led the team through the exciting 1987 season.

This year proved to be one of many honors for the ladies. Valeri Roth and Julie Smith were named All-Conference, first team, while Kristi Weygandt and Karen Ishler were named to the second team. Freshmen Christine Carlson and Patti Howe really pulled through for the team when Weygandt suffered a sprained ankle early in the season. Finally, Suzy Hulit was named East All-Region (outside hitter).

Statistics aside, these spirited young women shared in the good times and bad. They came together as a team to play another fine season of volleyball. When Coach Susan Roberts stated, "This season promises to be exciting from the first game to last," she was certainly right!

Football

The 1987 football season began with a bang. The Wolverines of Grove City shut out their first opponents of the season, the Dukes of Duquesne, with a score of 20-0. The team appeared to be full of fire. Unfortunately that fire smoldered through the next three games. At Thiel, Coach Chris Smith's team got back their spark and showed they still had what it takes, bringing home a 31-14 win. The next weekend was Homecoming and the Wolverines were ready to take on the challenge of the Bethany team. They added the perfect touch to the Homecoming festivities by giving Grove City an awesome 42-6 victory. The next three games were tough and they ended in defeat despite the strong effort of the team. The Wolverines ended the year with an overall record of 3-6 and a PAC record of 2-4. In spite of the team's difficulties this season, the field goal kicker, senior Doug Hart, had an excellent season making 11 of his 16 attempted field goals and kicking 12 of 13 PATs. Hart became Grove City's first Kodak All-American in football showing his performance was nationally recognized. The team put in a lot of hard work and dedication which can only serve to make next season better.

Soccer

The 1987 season proved to be frustrating for the Grove City College soccer team. Key injuries and penalties were the source of unfortunate setbacks. Although the Wolverines did not play consistently as a team, they always received encouraging support from their fans. Grove City finished the season with an overall winning record of 6-5-2. The Wolverine defense held back their opponents and scored five shutouts. The team did not fare quite as well in the Presidents' Athletic Conference and concluded the season with a 1-3-1 record, but they played well in the WPISC for an ending record of 4-0-1. Under coach Don Lyle, co-captains Steve Grose and Jeff Schroeder led the Wolverines to score a total of 26 goals against their opponents' 17. Fourteen returning lettermen rounded out the squad of twenty-eight men, and the team triumphed over minor setbacks for a victorious season.

Activities

"The time, places, and manner of holding elections . . . shall be prescribed in each state by the Legislature . . . "
US Constitution

A good college education includes classes and various activities. One can be rewarded for outstanding scholastic performance through membership in an honorary, or anyone can join an organization whose interests compare with his or hers. These organizations can be as rewarding or as relaxing as the time one puts into them. One person in particular puts forth a great effort, the president.

The burden of assigning jobs, arranging information, and letting everyone know when the meeting is falls into the president's line of responsibilities. William Samuel Johnson knows these responsibilities. He was one of the three delegates to the Constitutional Convention from Connecticut. He was president of various organizations while in college and chairman of the committee to draft the final Constitution. From here, he went on to represent Connecticut in the Senate from 1789 until 1791. Organization presidents, like William Samuel Johnson, will find satisfaction in achieving each of their goals.

These positions of authority are sought after by many and attained by few. A prestigious title brings about hard work. One must be willing to commit himself to the cause. Through one's hard work and commitment comes reward. Stemming from the president, the group enjoys the benefits.

The band gets a new look.

Touring Choir

"Is That a Choir I Hear?"

"When in our music God is glorified, and adoration leaves no room for pride; it is as though the whole creation cried Alleluia."

The Grove City College Touring Choir spent its 29th annual Spring Break bringing God's message in song to the people of Eastern Pennsylvania and Upstate New York. The 41 voice group was led by director Dr. Doug Browne to sing sacred music, varying from the Renaissance period, to Brahms, to Twentieth century, contemporary styles.

"With a voice of singing declare ye and tell this. Utter it even to the end of the earth: Alleluia!"

Transported across the miles on the ten day, twelve concert tour by Dave Dudash, choir members enjoyed the many sights and sounds of New York City. Ports of call included the United States Military Academy at West Point, the Corning Glass Museum, Letchworth Park and Niagara Falls, Canada!

"Did not Jesus sing that night, when utmost evil strove against the Light? Then let us sing, for He won the fight."

Even through occasional bad weather, and a first concert given without the benefit of electricity, comfort was taken in the music and the mission. Interspersed among a capella singing, the choir was assisted by piano, organ, violin, flute, and narration. The concert tour and later appearances at local churches were sparked by such events as Carolyn's Helpful Hints, Official Dr. Browne Day, the Kazoo Band, and the Rookie Riser Crew. The Touring Choir will continue its traditions of song and praise for years to come.

"Is that a choir I hear, singing the praises of God? No, the Lord God Himself is exulting o'er you in song!"

The Decades

The twelfth season of Orchesis remembered the different styles of dance through the Twentieth Century. Beginning with a medley, the Troupe continued through their program with special selections highlighting the 1900's. They brought the program to a close with the theme from "Star Wars."

The entire Orchesis Dance Troupe is to be congratulated on a job well done. The 120 dancers cannot do it alone, however, special thanks and congratulations are extended to Dr. Gloria Stansberry. When giving out pat on the backs one must not forget everyone behind the scenes; Martin Christoffel, John Pfaff, Nina Barlow, Sandra Kressley, Mrs. Betsy Craig, and all the others.

The men on campus are beginning to enter into the dance scene. This year Kirk Rickansrud joined Lisa Seibold in choreographing "Oh Yeah!" The group of fourteen emphasized the new form of dance, break dancing.

Ann Tate, along with seven other ladies, continued to grace the stage with ballet. The girls flowed around the stage in white outfits to the tune of "Bring a Torch Jeanette Isabella." The program turned back to the 1980's.

The cheerleaders and the atheletes came dancing to "Let's Hear It for the Boy." One agile wrestler showed us some ballet from the man's side. The fourteen performers were led by Tammy Bice and Kelly McCreary. They ended dynamically by building a pyramid (something our cheerleaders cannot do).

Lynn Bannan and Maria Molvin were followed by twelve others tapping to "Back to the Sixties." A different style from those already mentioned. The girls put forth a great performance.

The choreographers-Tracey McGahan, Amy Papania, Lynn Bannan, Maria Molvin, Bonnie Brylka, Ann Tate, Tammy Bice, Kelly McCreary, Lisa Oberkircher, Kim Cress, Amy Smith, Lisa Dudas, Deb Schoeppner, Kirk Rickensrud, and Lisa Seibold- did an outstanding job. Standing on a pedestal above the others are head choreographers, Kelly Kuremsky and Tammy Trimble. Tammy and Kelly danced together to "Together Wherever We Go" and "If My Friends Could See Me Now." Tammy, a senior, bids farewell and good luck to the Troupe. She has danced with Orchesis for four years. Kelly, a junior, looks forward to another successful and exciting year. These friends came together, and through the advise of Dr. Gloria Stansberry, led the largest Orchesis Dance Troupe to a successful end for another year.

The college natatorium came alive to the big band sounds of Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, and many others as the GCC Tritons and Miss Cynthia Walters staged the 1987 water show, "Big Band Splash," on November 12, 13, and 14. The forty-eight members gave a professional, enthusiastic performance enjoyed by all.

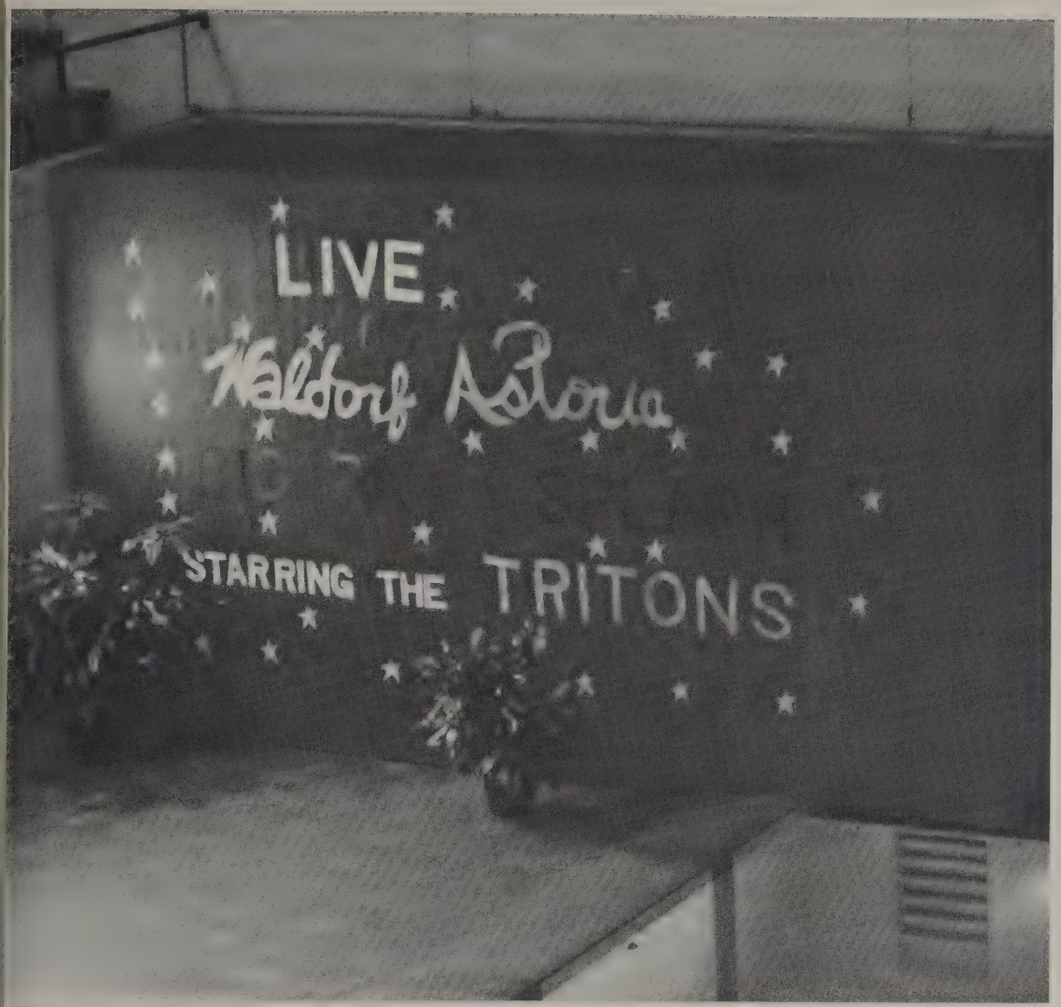

The twenty-first show, "Big Band Splash," featured twelve numbers from the swing era. The natographers included Carol Walters, Cindy Shultz, Sue McKinley, Daphne Briggs, Lynn Johnson, Lynn Niggel, Judy Bentz, Heidi Waltman, and Michele Hillard. Senior chairperson Mary Garwig natographed and performed her solo to "Moonlight Serenade." She also natographed and performed a mixed duet with senior John Whitaker to "Stardust." Kristen Hawkins, junior chairperson, natographed and performed her solo to "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." Kristen and sophomore Carol Walters natographed and performed a duet to "In the Mood." Some other numbers performed by the Tritons included "Sentimental Journey," "Stomping at the Savoy," "Pennies from Heaven," "Tuxedo Junction," "Boobie-Woogie Bugle Boy," and "I've Got a Gal From Kalamazoo," "Little Brown Jug," and "Chatanooga Choo Choo." The finale, natographed by Michele Hillard, was performed by the entire cast to "American Bandstand" and "Auld Lang Syne."

The shows success was due also to the people behind the scenes: Betsy Spierling, Todd Simpson, Carter Davies, Melanie Miller, Sue McKinley, Miss Patricia Zbell, and Chrissie Bryan. Through cooperation and hard work, the twenty-first water show, "Big Band Splash," was a huge success.

Live From P.F.A.C.

Who would have thought that plants from another world would ever come to Grove City to begin their attack on the human race? That is what appeared to have happened in November when the Audrey II grew larger than life on the stage at Pew Fine Arts Center. Dave Willerup as Seymour and Chuck E. Gray as Audrey comprised the duo which, along with the rest of the cast and crew, brought the musical Little Shop of Horrors to our campus. After unimaginable hours of rehearsal, the show was performed for audiences who eagerly followed the plight of young Seymour. His life became topsy-turvey after he bought an exotic plant. The events which followed could only be described as being of tremendous proportions. This popular musical, under the watchful eyes of Dr. Dixon and Betsy Deedrick, showed audiences just how dangerous things can be when guests from outerspace decide to stay for dinner.

Guest Artist Series

The Guest Artist Programs are a part of the Cultural Series selected and funded by the Student Activities Committee. The 1987-88 Program consisted of the U.S. Army Band and Soldiers' Chorus, the Vienna Choir Boys, the Eastman Jazz Ensemble, and the Pittsburgh Opera Theater's presentation of "The Barber of Seville." All four programs took place in Ketler Auditorium of the Pew Fine Arts Center.

Known as the "Musical Ambassadors of the Army," the U.S. Field Band entertained the audience with several patriotic songs as well as accompanying the "voice" of the band, the Soldiers' Chorus. The Chorus, considered one of the best vocal groups to appear in public, presented to the GCC audience its own special arrangements of famous compositions.

The Vienna Choir Boys made Grove City College a stop on their forty-second U.S. tour. Although most of their songs were in German, their gift for singing could not be missed. An operetta by the young performers (the oldest is 14) further demonstrated their talent. The Choir is world famous, having traveled as far as Japan, South America, and South Africa, and are reknown as the "world's most beloved choir."

The Eastman Jazz Ensemble is the primary group of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. The school has won more awards than any other school in student talent contests including awards in jazz arranging. In fact, many of the songs played for Grove City's audience were arranged by students of Eastman. The Ensemble is under the direction of Rayburn Wright.

The final program was the comic opera by Rossini, "The Barber of Seville" presented by the Pittsburgh Opera Theater. One of the Opera Theater's goals is to "build opera audiences in outlying tri-state areas" where opportunities to see the opera are limited. The opera itself centered around the scheming of the barber, Figaro. Mozart's "sequel" to this work, "The Marriage of Figaro," postdates the events, but was written nearly thirty years before "The Barber of Seville."

We, the members of AEX, are an independent men's housing group who's common bond is found in Jesus Christ. The purpose of our organization is to provide fellowship to believers from all walks of faith, we are meant to be "a stronghold in the time of storm." This goal is not limited to members only, but rather, is an open invitation to all who are in need. Our members are actively outreaching to the campus through participation in many different organizations. These include, but are not limited to, Salt Company, Young Life, New Life, George Jr. Republic, College Republican, Accounting Society, National Society of Professional Engineers, Society of Automotive Engineers, Air Force ROTC, Arnold Air Society, Touring Choir, Orientation Board, Life Advocates, Christian Concert Committee, and Chapel Staff.

One of the main strengths of our group is the diversity among its members. The broad range of personalities and interests that is represented here allows everyone the opportunity to grow and learn from each other. It is through this kind of growth and practical knowledge that our college years truly become valuable and meaningful.

Alpha Sigma Independent Men's Residence Organization, founded in 1974, was the first housing group on the Grove City College campus. Traditionally, many Alpha Sigs have been dedicated to the Fine Arts, particularly the music and theatre departments. Although our interests involve the Arts, our fields of study reflect a group with a healthy diversity.

In addition to common housing in Lincoln Hall, we enjoy a wide range of activities. Along with our stereotypical music and theatrical endeavors we have recently branched into IMO sports. Our team's records are inversly proportional to the amount of fun we've had. We've had lots of fun. We also enjoy our annual Christmas party as well as numerous other functions throughout the year. At Homecoming this year we combined with the sisters of Theta Alph Pi to build a float which earned a share of third place in the Homecoming Parade. Our post-Winter Festival (a.k.a. Spring Party) is always a favorite, enjoyed by all in attendance.

Living with a group with which you share a common interest can be a rewarding experience. The enthusiasm and camaraderie of Alpha Sigma keeps the bonds of our friendships close.

Delta Rho Sigma is an independent men's housing group. We are relatively small and come from various backgrounds. As a result of our small size members know each other quite well, and each brings something special to the organization.

We have always participated in all Independent Men's Organization sponsored sports, but in past years we very rarely did anything else together as a group. Beginning this year we are attempting to remedy this. We have taken a great step in attempting to increase our group activities by participating in the Homecoming float competition, which our group has not participated in for many years.

We are finding out how much fun our group can have together and are going to continue to try new things. We are a bunch of guys that just like to have fun.

The Tri-Rho housing group is an active and diverse group of men. The Rhos sponsor several campus-wide social and service events. Every year they work the refrigerator rental program for Men's Governing Board, enter a float in the homecoming parade, and host the Tri-Rho Dance Extravaganza for the enjoyment of the whole campus. At least one Rho team is always competing in intramurals whether it be football, volleyball, basketball, bowling or softball. Within the group Rhos enjoy several social events during the year including an informal Halloween hayride and campfire, Christmas party, and formal Spring Dinner Dance and a picnic or two.

Every Tri-Rho is also an individual. The Rhos are represented in a mixed bag of clubs and organizations on campus. They have members in many professional organizations including ACS, AICHE, IEEE, NSPE, SAE, AFROTC, IBC and Operation Top Management. Service clubs and honoraries such as KEMIKOS, IMO, MGB, Round Table, Arnold Air Society and Alpha Phi Omega all have Tri-Rhos as members. As far as sports, music and social clubs are concerned, the Rhos are active on the school football, track, and cross country teams, in Chapel Choir, Touring Choir, WSAJ, Outing Club and the College Republicans.

Sigma Phi Omicron was one of the first housing groups introduced to Grove City College. The idea of a housing group was to allow a group of independent men with similar interests to live together in a specified area. This group was not to be like a baby fraternity however. In fact, our greek letters were chosen as a play on words with Sigma Phi Omicron translating to "signi-fy nothing."

Sigma Phi Omicron has forty members commonly referred to as "the Crons." The last few years have been impressive building years in terms of diversity for the Crons. We have men majoring in almost every field available on campus and we have a great variety of backgrounds also. We have been very competetive in all intramural sports this year, and also in All College Sing in the past. Our members are involved in a wide variety of campus activities ranging anywhere from marching band to WSAJ to varsity sports. Yet even with such a large and varied group, the Crons still represent the idea of housing groups; developing relationships and close friends while living together.

Residing in the west basement of Hopeman, the Zeta Xi Omega housing group has undergone some major changes in the past year. For one, as some may have noticed already, the name is different. Zeta Xi Omega was originally founded under the name of The Science Association in 1975 to promote a spirit of unity among men of similar science related majors. In the past few years, the group has been more widely known as the Zenoids. In addition to adopting Greek letters, the Zeta Xis have designated their new colors as royal blue and silver.

Although they may be of similar majors, members can be found in many organizations of diversified interests such as the Gospel Team, Circle K, New Life, Outing Club and Alpha Phi Omega. Such professional groups and honoraries as IEEE, NSPE, Sigma Pi Sigma and Kemikos also have Zeta Xis as members.

Greeks

"New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union" U.S. Constitution

In the fall and spring the Greek organizations on campus tap new members. Each person brings his own personality, beliefs, and qualities into the fraternity or sorority. They share their differences and common bond growing together in friendship.

Some of these individuals will become very active in their group, such as holding offices and chairing committees, and others will enjoy just being a part of the organization. John Blair was this quiet type at the Constitutional Convention. He and six others, including such people as James Madison and George Washington, represented the state of Virginia. Mr. Blair went on from the convention to serve as a justice on the United States Supreme Court. He was always a quiet man, but he got his point across.

Whether loud or quiet, like John Blair, it takes each individual to make the group a whole. The fraternities and sororities share this sentiment and together form lasting friendships.

Alpha Beta Tau

The sisters of Alpha Beta Tau are actively involved in campus life as officers of various organizations and participants in extra curriculars. Seventy-five members proudly display the gray and the blue.

ABTs are presidents of such campus organizations as the Senior Class, AWS, PanHellenic Council, ODK, Mortar Board, W. A. A., Beta Beta Beta, Kappa Mu Epsilon and Pi Gamma Mu. ABTs are also active in Touring Choir, New Grace, OTM, Management Assocation, Orchesis, Salt Company, Delta Mu Delta and Lambda Epsilon Tau. Members also participate in such Varsity sports as Softball, Basketball, and Tennis.

The ABTs sponsor a variety of service projects annually. This year these included the ABT/DIK benefit dance to support the Grove City Food Pantry, a Valentine's fundraiser to benefit the American Heart Association, and a continuing service project for the United Methodist Home in Pittsburgh. We also provide birthday cards for the residents of Orchard Manor Nursing Home and periodically put on programs there. The ABTs also support various other charities and mission projects throughout the year.

Sorority Mothers, Mrs. Gerri Jenny and Mrs. Ginny Seybold and Grandmother Mrs. Mary Ellen Liggitt proudly represent ABT. Mr. Bill Corby is honorary Grandfather.

Delta Iota Kappa

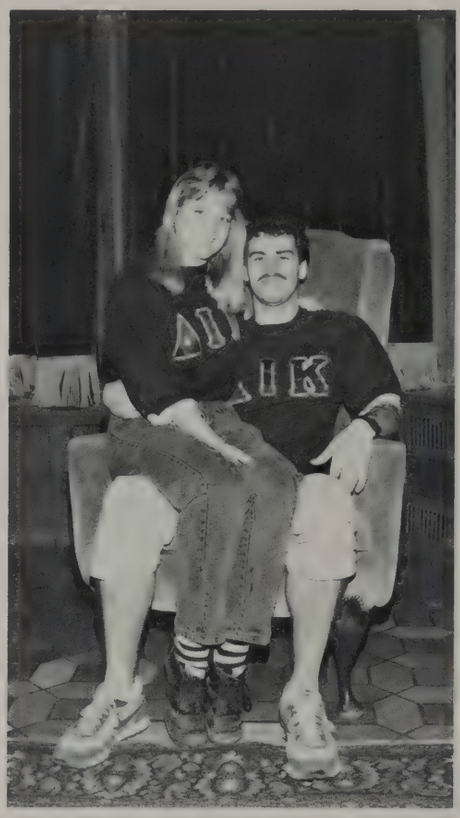

The pride and tradition that has characterized our brotherhood for 72 years continues. Our members have been involved in many activities throughout the past year. Last year our version of "Louie, Louie" brought the fraternity first place honors at All College Sing. Recently, the annual DIK-ABT benefit dance was a great success. This event raised several hundred dollars for the Grove City Food Bank.

Brothers were very active in academic affairs. DIK's could be found on honoraries such as Round Table, ODK, physics, accounting and business as well as many others. We also belonged to organizaions such as OTM, Student Council and the Management Association. Fraternity grades remained at their usual high. For six of the last seven years we have won the Academic Trophy, our most prized possession. To our delight, the pledge class Academic Trophy was also captured.

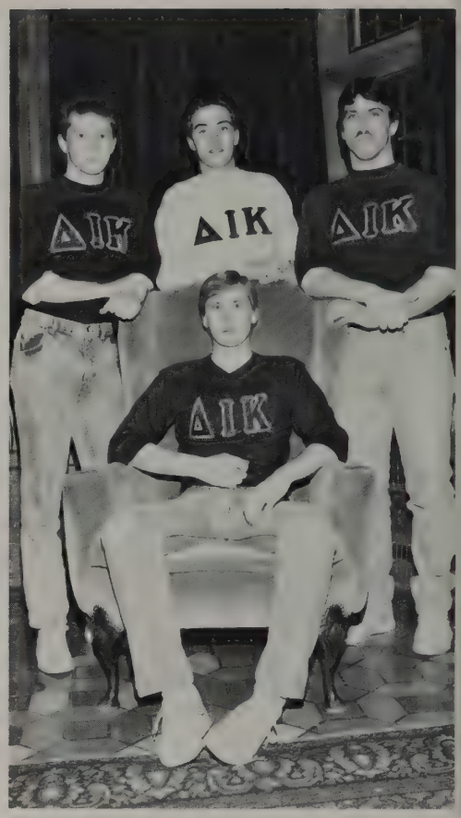

Fraternity members have also been involved in college sports. This is especially true where running is involved. This years cross country team was supported by several DIK's, two of whom were team captains. The same is true for the track team which was also led by a brother.

The brothers of Delta Iota Kappa are proud of their past and are looking forward to maintaining its excellence in the future.

The Epsilon Pi Fraternity was founded at Grove City College in the year 1919. The founders adopted the motto of "Brothers working for the good of all" to be the backbone of this new fraternity. This tradition is still upheld today and shall continue in the future of our brotherhood.

We are involved in various varsity athletics and members of the football, basketball, track, and baseball team are currently in our fraternity. These members have achieved various P.A.C. Conference honors and All-American awards. We also sponsor the Hoyt Scholarship which is given to the most outstanding Chemistry student. The winner is chosen by the Grove City Chemistry Department.

Our social activities include participation in the Homecoming and May Day festivities. A large turnout of Pi Alumni are always present each year at Homecoming and they are very supportive of our fraternity. The Alumni also gather in the spring for the annual Alumni Basketball Game and in the summer a golf outing is held for the Alumni. The Alumni support has strengthened our fraternity and it has helped us to maintain the Epsilon Pi tradition.

Our advisor is Dr. Andrew Hoffecker. Our honorary advisor and brother, Dr. Dwight Guthrie, is a very special man. Dr. Guthrie joined the Pi's in 1926 and has been guiding us ever since.

Gamma Chi

Gamma Chi is a local sorority which was formed in 1919. Since its formation nearly 70 years ago, the sorority still survives and is now one of the largest social sororities on the Grove City College campus.

The women of Gamma Chi are very involved on the college campus. This is revealed in the wide range of activities in which Gamma Chi's participate. Members of the sorority hold such positions as OB Chairperson, New Life President, Pan Hellenic Vice President, as well as the president of the Student Government Association. Also, this year, Gamma Chi's were elected to the positions of Homecoming Queen and Junior May Queen.

Besides having a concern for the activities of the campus, Gamma Chi's are also concerned with the community. This year the service project included weekly visits to Orchard Manor Nursing Home. The sorority also sponsored a World Mission Child and made donations to such charitable organizations as the Grove City Food Pantry and Coalition for Christian Outreach.

The sisters of Gamma Chi are united by several common desires. Gamma Chi's strive to uphold several important ideals. The members respect the college faculty, their peers, and especially each other. This sorority allows each individual to express herself.

It wasn't long after returning from summer vacation that the Gamma Sigs were busy with Fall Rush; seven new girls joined the sorority under the new Going Active system. The transition to GADing was a challenge, but the new sisters soon felt at home with the Gamma Sigs.

October brought the sisters together to build the annual Homecoming float. This year, we combined talents with the Tri Rhos to construct a replica of the Grinch who stole Christmas—complete with a house from Whoville. We also had our annual run-a-thon with the Phi Tau Alpha fraternity in the fall; the proceeds the Gamma Sigs raised went to the National Wildlife Federation. Many participated as we gloriously ran the final lap of the 24-hour ordeal. Rounding up the year was the annual Christmas party at Mrs. Hart's. We always look forward to her delicious holiday food at our home away from home.

In January, we headed back to welcome eight new sisters. Shortly after that, the new officers were inducted and took over their offices with great enthusiasm to begin a new chapter in Gamma Sig history. We have also started a new service project at George Junior Republic and we hope to make it a regular event on our calendar. Many wonderful memories have been made and we will cherish them and our sisters always.

The Pan Sophic Fraternity is a diverse group of thirty-eight brothers commonly referred to as "the Pans." Organized in 1911, the group had ten original members; thus the Pan Sophic Fraternity is the oldest fraternity on campus and one of the oldest local fraternities in the nation.

With the addition of fourteen new brothers, we have not only strengthened our athletic abilities but also increased our involvement in activities on campus as well as in the community. Brothers are involved in Varsity sports, AFROTC, Orientation Board, Orchesis, WSAJ, and the many honoraries on campus. Pan Sophic is also responsible for sponsoring a racquetball tournament with all proceeds donated to the Red Box Mission Fund.

The 1987-88 school year once again saw the brothers of Phi Tau Alpha continue in their challenge to "Seek Individual Excellence." Marking their twenty-second year of brotherhood, the Phi Taus remain highly active and visible on the Grove City College campus, with brothers involved in such diverse activities as Student Government, intercollegiate athletics, Interfraternity Executive Council, band, theatre, and various religious organizations.

The campus and surrounding community have also benefited from the presence of Phi Tau Alpha. Fraternity service projects through the past two semesters have included aiding Grove City police in protecting Halloween trick-or-treaters, the installation of a new guard rail on the lower campus parking lot, and maintenance of the grounds bordering Wolf Creek. The Phi Taus were also responsible for lighting the campus Christmas tree, and we again combined with the Gamma Sigma Phi sorority for the annual Keith "Howie" Parker Memorial Run-a-Thon, which serves the twofold purpose of raising money for charity as well as honoring a deceased brother.

The past year also included two additions to the fraternity: an excellence pledge class and a new advisor, Dr. Fred Brenner. We believe Dr. Brenner will continue to be an integral brother as Phi Tau Alpha looks forward to continued excellence in the years to come.

Sigma Alpha Sigma

The Sigma Alpha Sigma brotherhood was founded in 1957 and received official recognition from Grove City College in 1961. It was founded on principles of wisdom, service, and brotherhood, as its motto attests. The Sigs became the first fraternity to win both the IF sports trophy and the IF academic trophy in the same year. The fraternity colors are dolphin and orange.

Currently, the Sigs live on the second floor of Hicks Hall. Their advisor is Dr. Conder of the Chemistry Department. From their beginning, the Sigs tried to formulate a brotherhood of men with different backgrounds and interests. They have continued that tradition to this day.

The sorority Sigma Delta Phi was founded in 1920 and has a membership of 39 girls. They sport the colors white and black and have the panda as their mascot.

Dr. Catherine Trammell is the D'Phis' sorority mother. She is a professor in the Modern Languages Department. Dr. Tramell was preceeded by Mrs. Nyla Kaufman who held the position from 1967 to 1987.

This fall the D'Phis were awarded second place for their float entry. The sisters of Sigma Delta Phi also had a sweatshirt sale to benefit the Red Box and Recreation Building Funds. As individuality is a key component in all the girls that form Sigma Delta Phi, they have many different interests and boast involvement in the following activities and honoraries: Delta Mu Delta, National Society of Professional Engineers, Law Club, Crown and Sceptre, Byte, Touring Choir, Collegian staff and many more.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

Despite great changes in rush and going active procedures, the Tri-Sigs have experienced another year of tradition and sisterhood.

Our fall semester was enhanced by welcoming five new girls into our sorority. Although pledging was not permitted, we were able to teach our new sisters the ideals and traditions of the black and gold.

One of the focal points of our year, our annual service project, coincided with the Christmas season. We all participated in the KDKA "Presents for Patients" campaign and also the White Tissue Paper offering at Tower Church. As well as spreading the warmth of the season, these projects afforded us the opportunity to work together as sisters.

Excitement filled the campus after Christmas break, as sororities and fraternities anxiously awaited the welcoming of their new actives. Finally, at table pounding, with cheers and smiles, we welcomed 16 new girls into our sisterhood. These bright girls are the future of the Tri-Sigs and they have made us proud.

Now, as the year draws to a close and we bid farewell to those who are graduating, we look back on dreams we have shared, look ahead to hopes for the future, and celebrate "today, while our sisterhood lives in our hearts . . ."

Theta Alpha Pi

The sisters of the Theta Alpha Pi sorority, sixty-one members strong, can be seen sporting their burgundy and gray around campus. Throughout the year, the TA's are busily participating in many events such as fundraisers; service projects, such as reading to the kids at the community library; Homecoming festivities with a float that placed third this year, weekly sharing groups; fall and spring Formals; semester retreats; and picnics at our sorority mother's house. These are just a few of the many activities we enjoy.

Even though we are a unified sisterhood, we still are individuals. This can be seen in the range of campus involvement that we have. Due to our diversity, we belong to organizations too numerous to list but scan many fields of interest. They range from ODK, Beta Beta Beta, and International Business Club to Athletics, Music and Theatre.

As TA's, we are proud to be called a sisterhood and share a unique bond that no one can sever. Through the good times and the bad we know we can count on each other because we are sisters. We have learned to lean on one another as well as God for guidance, caring and support. Our sisterhood will stand frim with a strong foundation such as we know.

Keeping the Tradition Alive

Celebrating 200 years of the Constitution of the United States, Grove City College style.

September 17, 1987, people across the United States reflected back on the stories of the creation of the Constitution of the United States of America. Grove City College held a program in front of the American flag. The band came marching down from Pew Fine Arts Center to the tunes of "This is My Country" and "Yankee Doodle."

Dr. Sparks addressed the question of "why the Constitution has been successful." He was followed by Greg Bahr who has worked in Washington and seen how the Constitution is a tradition that continues to live. Dr. Charles S. MacKenzie brought the program to a close when he told of the celebration 100 years ago. Dr. Isaac Ketler and Grove City College students celebrated the 100th Anniversary of the Constitution on September 17, 1887. As we sang together "God Bless America" balloons were let off, and the bells of the town churches rang.

With hopes of tomorrow, Grove City College will celebrate the 300th Anniversary of the Constitution on September 17, 2087. To continue we must believe as the framers of the Constitution believed. That is, we should believe in the right to live and work free from tyranny. May our tomorrows keep this tradition as alive as it has been in our yesterdays.

Stock Market Crash

On October 19, 1987, the United States' financial heartbeat almost stopped. The day, now referred to as "Black Monday," saw the Wall Street stock exchanges crash with a resounding boom which rippled throughout the world financial markets. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell a record 508 points, sales volume records were eclipsed, and over $500 billion in paper losses were inflicted. It was in all respects, a worse financial trauma than the October 29, 1929 crash which initiated the Great Depression.

Black Monday effectively ended a five year bull market on Wall Street that provided unprecedented gains in stock valuations. The crash also brought to a close a period often characterized by the corporate takeover artist, insider trading scandals, and the young, flamboyant millionaire stock broker.

While Washington called for calm and reinforced the claim that the nation's economy was still sound, financial analysts pointed to concerns about the federal trade deficit, the foreign trade deficit, the falling dollar, and worries about accelerated inflation as some of the key initiators of the crash. Simple market overvaluation was the answer of others. As a result of this huge market correction, many economists foresaw an inevitable economic recession.

The anxiety felt in the financial world also affected us here at Grove City College. Seniors became concerned that the promising fall job market would dissipate if employers were spooked by the dire economic news. Business and economic classes on campus discussed the subject at hand extensively and reflected upon the occurrence and plotted future courses of action.

Fortunately, in the following weeks and months the stock market stabilized and disarmed some of the concern about the soundness of the economy. While some employers did reduce hiring, most retained their pre-crash hiring intentions. And amid precautions of a coming recession, the economy continued to grow in the months following the market debacle.

The stock market crash was an event that made us examine our future and search for answers of what to expect from our economy. October 19 was a disturbing and frightening day which added concern to our future financial security.

October 19 was called "crash" by some, "meltdown" by others, and still others called it "Black Monday."

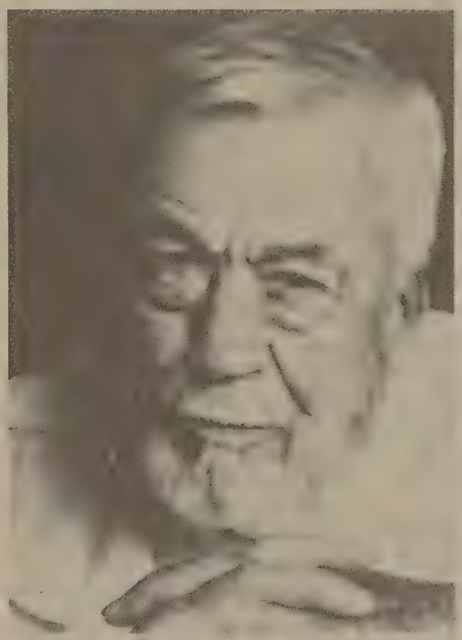

Deaths In 1987-88

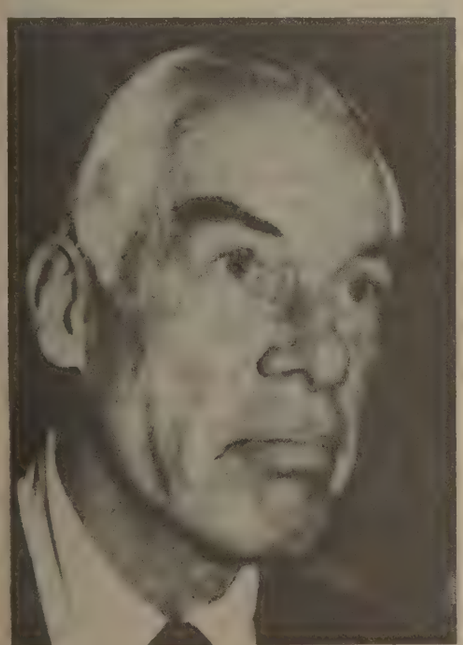

Fred Astaire, who epitomized Hollywood's elegance for 25 years dancing in top hat and tails with Ginger Rogers and other stars, died of pneumonia in June at the age of 88.

Liberace, the glittering showman and pianist who captivated fans for four decades with an inimitable personal and musical style, died quietly at his home in February at the age of 67.

John Huston, who directed such films as "The Maltese Falcon" and "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," died in his sleep in August at the age of 81.

Lee Marvin, the gravel-voiced Oscar winner who died in August at the age of 63, was remembered by colleagues as an actor who really was among the good guys even though he oftern portrayed the hard-as-nails rogue.

Jackie Gleason, the rotund "Great One" who got laughs and riches as a blustering bus driver in the television series "The Honeymooners," died in June at the age of 71.

Lorne Greene, who for 14 years played the firm but gentle father to three sons on television's "Bonanza," died in September at the age of 72.

Run Out Of Hot Air

On July 9, 1987 two balloonists set off on a voyage that they hoped would be the first transatlantic hot-air-balloon flight. One of the balloonists, Richard Branson, is a British pop-music Tycoon and owns the Virginia Atlantic Airways. The other, Per Lindstrand, is the Swede who designed the balloon, Virgin Atlantic Flyer. This voyage for Linstrand was more than a quest to be the first to cross the Atlantic in a hot-air-balloon, he looked on it also as a test of high technology.

The reason such a voyage had never been successfully completed earlier was because the fuel needed to go the large distance was too heavy. Lindstrand tried to overcome this problem by covering the balloon with a black heat-absorbent skin. During daylight hours, the heat from the sun would keep the balloon aloft and so the propane burners were needed only at night. This allowed them to cut back the fuel supplies significantly. Another step Lindstrand took to make the balloon more efficient was to pressurize the capsule and so allow the crew to fly high enough to take advantage of the jet stream. And, so it was with high hopes that this team set out from Sugarloaf Mountain in Maine on that early July day.

While ascending, the Virgin Atlantic Flyer lost two of its twelve fuel tanks, but the next 30 hours went by with no more trouble. A few miles from the Scottish coast, however, difficulties developed. The balloon lost altitude and the pressuized capsule began taking in water as it was dragged across the Irish Sea. The crew managed to get the balloon to rise again, but they knew they were in real trouble. They radioed for help and then Lindstrand leaped over the side, and 25 minutes later Branson followed him into the sea. British rescuers soon arrived and recovered them from the water. The two balloonists were disappointed but happy to be alive.

There is some speculation on whether they successfully completed their voyage or not. Witnesses in Northern Ireland said they had seen the capsule scrape along the ground for 150 yards. This was all the Guinness Book of World Records needed. They declared the Virgin Atlantic Flyer the first hot-air-balloon to complete the transatlantic flight. The Frenchbased International Aeronautical Federation had not yet made a formal decision publicly. At any rate, the two balloonists had proven that the voyage could be made with a high probability of success.

USS Stark Attacked

In May of 1987 an Iraqui Mirage F1 fired two missiles at the USS Stark, in the Persian Gulf, killing 37 US sailors and crippling the small US frigate. The Iraqui response was that it was an accident.

The stark first knew about the jet when it was 200 miles away, flying at 5,000 feet and 550 miles per hour toward the Stark. The captain of the Stark then sent a radio message, "This is US Navy warship on your 078, for 12 miles. Request identification of yourself over."

There was no response. Thirty-six seconds later the Stark sent another message demanding identification and intentions.

Still there was no response. At this point the Stark had no radar detection that it had been fired upon. One minute later the Stark would be hit. The missiles were spotted by a lookout giving the Stark ten seconds to react.

The missile tore a ten foot by fifteen foot hole on the port side of the thin steel hull. With a violent explosion, and flames everywhere, the second missile hit. All the normal electronic systems aboard the Stark were destroyed. A crewman issued a distress call with a hand-held radio. It was heard by the destroyer Warddell. Nearby helicopters from the coast then responded.

If the Stark would have known it was fired upon, with one minute to respond, it could have reacted several ways. The first way would have been to utilize the MD 92 fire control that can guide antiaircraft missiles up to 90 miles away. A second option would have been to use the OTO antiaircraft gun which fires shells at a rate of 90 bullets a minute. The last ditch weapon the Stark had was the Phalanx gatling gun firing 3,000 rounds a minute.

None of these options were utilized to destroy the missiles or the jet, however, because of either mechanical or human error aboard the Stark.

Iraq's president, Suddam Hussein promptly sent an apology to the United States, stating that the Stark was mistaken for an Iranian tanker. The Iraquis agreed to pay compensation to the families of the victims and to pay for damages to the stark.

Faculty Follies

Mr. R. Jack Behringer again grand mastered the Faculty Follies. He introduced such acts as "I Heard it Through the Grapevine" and "Karnak".

The student body of Grove City College looks forward to this event almost as much as the professors. It is a time for faculty to reveal their true colors. Mr. Jenny stole the show when he adapted the Church Lady to Grove City College. But, who could complain when the Wee Boys, including Mr. Hadley, Dr. Currid, Mr. Edgar, and Mr. Bouman, came on to sing. Late Night with David Letterman moved up to become Early Night with David Letterman. The religion department stirred up the laughs with that one.

Other performers were: Dr. Hill, Coach Smith, Mr. Lyle, Dr. Houston, Mr. Kaplan, Dr. Wood, Mr. Kendall, Mr. Develde, Dr. Bibza, Dr. Sparks, Mr. Fleming, Dr. and Mrs. Hoffecker, Dr. Foster, Mrs. Paxton, Dr. Bowne, and Dr. Reeder. The evening would not be complete without hearing from the infamous Dr. Rex Reeder.

Overall the night was a success. The performers had as much fun as the audience. Appreciation for making the evening possible goes to Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa. Thanks also goes to the participants.

Cover-Up

Even the best laid plans can fail when tiny details are altered. Covert government operations are particularly susceptible to failure; the slightest misstep can doom the entire operation to failure. Such was the case when one small memo that should have been shredded was later found and revealed one of the most memorable government scandals of the decade.

On November 25, 1986, United States Attorney General Edwin Meese disclosed the diversion of profits from the secret sale of weapons to Iran to send military supplies to the contras fighting the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. Millions of dollars missing from the sales were diverted to the contras through imprecise accounting practices and the use of foreign bank accounts. The total amount of the diversions is approximately $8 million, but since the diversions were mixed with monies from other sources, the exact amount may never be known.

Democratic Senator Daniel Inouye of Hawaii presided over a series of Congressional hearings held in three parts. Act I concerned the origins of the Reagan Administration's cover operations to supply military aid to the contras. Some sources suggest that the help began as early as 1983. In 1984, the passage of the Boland Amendment specifically banned all agencies involved in intelligence activities from providing support to the Nicaraguan rebels. The diversion of profits from arms sales to Iran was partly an attempt to sidestep the Congressional ban on military aid to the contras while achieving the policy goal of keeping them fighting for freedom.

Act II involved two issues concerning President Reagan's overtures to Iran. The first and more easily understood issue is the holding of American hostages by the Iranians. In an effort to free these citizens, the administration skirted its own boycott and sold arms to a terrorist state. The second issue involves Nicaragua. Although the Reagan Administration supports the contra rebels, they have failed to gain either Congressional or popular approval for policies in support of the contras. This lack of agreement between the administration and the public may have caused suspicion of President Reagan and his top officials, but sources at the White House claim that neither President Reagan or Vice President Bush were aware of the diversion of profits.

The most memorable part of the hearings, Act III focused on who was to blame and for what. Some lawmakers feel that the Boland Amendment does not apply to the President, but if, as President Reagan claims, he was not aware of the diversion, then this law was violated as well as the Arms Export Control Act.

Dozens of officials and civilians were involved with the scam. Iranian-American businessman Albert Hakim directed the financial operations of the affair and managed the Swiss bank accounts where the profits from the arms sales were deposited. Air Force Major General Richard Secord assisted in handling these accounts and directed the airlift of supplies to the contras. United States Attorney General Edwin Meese played an instrumental role in covering the affair.

Marine Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North almost saved the credibility of the administration. Playing on America's values and nostalgias, he projected an aura of honor and injured virtue. North claims that he sent five memos seeking approval from President Reagan to divert funds. His superior, John Poindexter, claims that he kept White House officials in the dark, and there is no proof that Reagan ever saw the memos. North admits that he does not recall seeing approval on any returned document, but he directed the diversion of profits after each of three United States sales to the Iranians because Poindexter did not tell him that his actions had not been approved. Gifted at the persuasive arts, North gave "pep talks" to private citizens to enlist their monetary support and to stir up support for the contras. With the help of his secretary, Fawn Hall, he shredded all paperwork associated with the scam. The discovery of one forgotten copy set off an investigation into the affair, and North was fired three days after Attorney General Meese publically revealed the controversy.

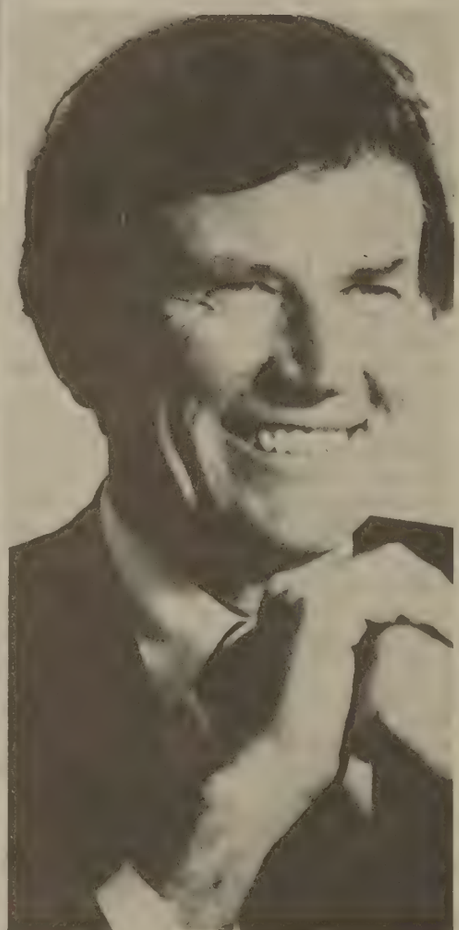

Throughout the hearings, North displayed unwavering support for the contras and loyalty to President Reagan. Officials were intially afraid that his testimony would taint President Reagan, but North actually helped to divert attention away from the president. The main theme of his testimony was the assumption that his actions had been approved. In spite of popular appeal, questions on his credibility have surfaced with the discovery of damaging information on computer tapes containing electronic correspondence between North and Poindexter.

CIA director William Casey apparently masterminded the whole affair. He originated the idea of using the profits from the Iranian arms sales to aid the contras, and, assuming that the National Security Council was not covered under the Boland Amendment, he shifted previous contra support to this agency's staff. Casey believed that the CIA should not carry out this scheme, so he established the plan to avoid the legal requirements of presidential approval and reporting to Congress. Casey also devised the "fall guy" plan, where North would take the hit if the affair was exposed. William Casey died on May 6, 1987; with him he took parts of the story that may now never be known.

The central issue to the affair is the role of administration officials in pursuing secret and possibly illegal foreign policy by using private and semiprivate operations to supply military aid to the contras when specifically frobidden by Congress. Contra supporters in the United States are caught in a no-win situation: if arms are sent privately, the sale will violate the Neutrality Act and other laws, but if arms are sent through government channels, the sale will violate a direct Congressional ban. In addition, although the National Security Council does not fit the definition of "an entity engaged in intelligence activities," most officials feel that common-sense judgement should prevail and prevent the use of this agency to divert funds to the contras. Regardless of the legality of its actions, our government feels committment to the contras and will keep sending aid. The sources and amount of aid will depend more on the situation in Nicaragua than on the outcome of the hearings.

The Gary Hart Affair

Democratic presidential candidate Gary Hart.

The 1988 Democratic Presidential Primary was embroiled in controversy from the beginning. The Democrats entered the race with an established front runner in former Coloradan Senator Gary Hart. Hart had previously given Walter Mondale a run for the money in the 1984 Democratic primary and started the 1988 race the overwhelming favorite. But in mid-May, only twenty-five days after officially entering the race, Hart withdrew from the contest amid allegations by the Miami Herald of an affair with actress/model Donna Rice,

While there was never convicting proof that Hart had committed adultery with Rice the lack of a direct refutation to the charge was evidence enough for the media. Public pressure built and with the release of incriminating photos of Hart and Rice aboard the aptly named yacht "Monkey Business," the impossibility of an effective campaign for Democratic nomination became apparent.

As a more focused investigation of Gary Hart's past ensued, more skeletons in the closet were revealed. In Washington circles, Hart's womanizing was well-known, and many of his closest advisors feared that these past indiscretions could torpedo his run for the Presidency. In addition, such facts as Hart's changing his name from Hartpence and a fluctuating age exposed his campaign to further ridicule.

The odyssey of Gary Hart was still not concluded. In late December of 1987, Hart announced his return to the Democratic race. His re-entry spurned criticism from the other Democratic hopefuls who were clamoring for elusive front runner status. Hart's strategy was to turn the tables and portray himself as a victim of the media's head hunting excesses. For the new campaign slogan, Hart declared, "Let the people decide." After crushing and humiliating defeats in the Iowa and New Hampshire primaries, the people decided that Hart was not their choice for Democratic nomination, and Gary Hart quietly and humbly withdrew a second time from his Presidential quest.

AFROTC Closing

Old traditions-new ideas. Grove City College through its 112 years, has established several traditions that the students faithfully continue to practice. Some traditions will flourish while others will fade away only to leave fond memories. Since 1951 several Grove City College students have marched throughout the campus, adorned in their Air Force Blues, preparing for their futures as military officers. Shortly, this tradition will be halted as a result to an astounding decision handed down from the Pentagon.

On January 28, 1988 the Secretary of the United States Air Force announced that thirty Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) commissioning programs would be phased out over the next eighteen months. Unfortunately, the Oakley G. Kelly Squadron at Grove City College is one of these affected programs.

The action was taken in response to the recent budget cuts affecting the military services and the reduced demand for commissioned Air Force officers. The detachment at Grove City was selected for closure because of the small undergraduate population to draw officer candidates from.

In early April an announcement that would delay the closing of all affected programs offered one last spark of hope for the cadets. However, with the passing of the Civil Rights Restoration Act by Congress, the Board of Trustees and the college attorneys recommended that the plans for the detachment closing proceed. As stated in the new Civil Rights Bill, if one part of an institution is subject to federal regulation and control so is the institution. Therefore, since the AFROTC program is a federally funded program, Grove City College could be subject to federal control. Considering all possibilities, the college did not want to jeapardize efforts and therefore reaffirmed their opposition to the bill.

The program at Detachment 745 incorporates fifty-eight students from both Grove City College and neighboring Slippery Rock University. This cooperative Air Force program has commissioned over nine hundred officers since its initiation. The senior and junior Professional Officer Corps (POC) cadets of 1988, will be the final officer candidates to be commissioned from Detachment 745, thus ending this successful tradition at Grove City College.

Along with the termination of the Monday Leadership Labs and Officer training summer camp, two campus organizations, in association with the Air Force program will be dissolved. The Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight will be phased out as of May, 1989.

The Arnold Air Society is a professional honorary service organization of selected AFROTC cadets, offering service to the campus, the community, and the nation. The auxillary honorary, Angel Flight, is composed of civilian college students interested in service to others, promoting the United States Air Force, and furthering the AFROTC program.

Both organizations combine efforts to participate in several projects on the campus, in the community, and on the regional and national level. Recently, the combined efforts of the organizaitons brought the Prisoners of War/Missing in Action (POW/MIA) awareness week, Red Cross Blood Drive, and Young Astronauts program to the campus and surrounding Grove City community.

The Angel Flight program has been very successful on the campus. Presently the flight sponsors the Region A Headquarters which oversees the organization and activities of other flights from Maine to Virginia. Region officers have been recognized with national and area awards for their service to the organization.

Through the Arnold Air Society, Angel Flight, and particularly the AFROTC corps, the program at Grove City College has produced several outstanding leaders. The tradition of excellent officer training and service will be missed from the campus atmosphere.

Judge Bork

Beginning his national speaking tour, Judge Robert H. Bork selected Grove City College as his starting point. On February 8, 1988, Grove City College Arena was filled to the rafters with an estimated 2,500 people eagerly anticipating the arrival of President Reagan's Supreme Court repudiated nominee, Judge Bork.

His topics of discussion were his confirmation process, the campaign to block his nomination, and his attempt to clear the false accusations made against him. Bork stated that Kennedy lied on the Senate floor about what the United States would be like if Bork were a Supreme Court Justice. Kennedy said, "Robert Bork's America is a land which women would be forced into backalley abortions, blacks would be forced to sit at segregated lunch counters, rogue police could break down citizens' doors in midnight raids, school children could not be taught about evolution, writers and artists could be censored at the whim of the government, and the doors of the federal courts would be shut on the fingers of millions of citizens."

Bork felt he could not respond to these accusations earlier because he was not running for his office. He was recommended for appointment to the Supreme Court. During his confirmation process effective advertising was also used against him.

His opponents used this advertising to support Kennedy's endeavor to keep Bork from the Supreme Court. The media did nothing to set the record straight. Therefore, the public opinion poles were greatly influenced against Bork.

Judge Bork reemphasized the ramifications of the politicizing of the judiciary. He said that this could cause judges to decide cases based on politics rather than on sound legal judgement. At this point he is unsure on what he would advise a judicial hopeful.

After speaking for 45 minutes, Judge Bork entertained questions for approximately half an hour. Judge Bork's powerful speech swayed many people in the audience to agree with his point of view. Judge Bork's speech attracted such national coverage as "Time Magazine," "Associated Press," "United Press International," and three television stations from Youngstown. Grove City College will always remember this historic event.

GCC Bill

1988 will be rembered as the year Congress passed the "Grove City Bill." Formally known as the Civil Rights Restoration Act, the bill was designed to overturn the 1984 Supreme Court decision, Grove City College vs. Bell. The Supreme Court limited the enforcement of civil rights laws by stating that only the "program or activity" getting federal aid, not the entire institution, was covered by the laws.

The dispute started when Grove City College, as a matter of principle, refused to file an assurance of compliance with Title IX of the Education Act which protects against sexual discrimination. The Supreme Court said that only the college's financial program was covered by Title IX because it was the only program receiving aid. The Civil Rights Restoration Act, however, redefines "program or activity" to mean the entire private organizations, and small businesses are required to comply with the following acts:

Title VI-1972 Education Act Amendment prohibiting sexual discrimination.

Rehabilitation Act 1973-protecting discrimination against the handicapped.

1975 Age Discrimination Act.

Although the bill passed by wide margins in both the House and the Senate, it was hotly debated. "People are just scared to death to vote against a civil rights bill, no matter how bad it is," Senator Orrin G. Hatch (R-Utah) said in the Congressional Quarterly.

To prevent the bill from dying before it reached the floor of the House for a vote, debate in the House was limited to three hours and all amendments to the bill were barred. Furthermore, the bill went to the floor of the House with no committee action.

President Reagan said that although he supported civil rights enforcement, he contends that this bill is too broad. The bill "would vastly and unjustifiably expand the power of the federal government over the decisions and affairs of private organizations," Reagan said in his veto message (March 16, 1988).

Congress, however, easily overrode his veto. "This measure does not create new law or expand civil rights. It merely restores the status quo that existed before the Grove City decision," said Representative Peter W. Rodino, Jr. Although many argue that the bill will create burdensome paperwork, sponsors say this is a distorted reading of the bill.

Only time will tell what effect the bill will have, but "it is almost certain, however," Dr. MacKenzie said, "that most colleges and universities will feel the force of this legislation to greater or lesser degrees . . . But since the legislation now is law, we will respect it. Though we now put the contest behind us, we will continue our historical commitment to equal educational opportunities for all; we will continue to reject federal dollars; we will continue to champion the cause of independent higher education and we will encourage other colleges to follow suit."

Orientation Board

At the beginning of the school year, a group of students can be seen moving in freshmen, setting up activities, and trying to maintain order in the midst of general chaos. This group is known as Orientation Board. Its function is to help the freshmen with their adjustment to college life and to become acquainted with each other.

Many do not realize that OB's activities begin early in the spring of the previous year. The painstaking process of selecting the executive council and the general committee members covers a span of about 12 days in early March. After the selection of the general committee, OB begins immediately to prepare for next year's freshmen.

After a great deal of preparation and many nights of little sleep, the special day arrives bringing the new freshmen to GCC.

Orientation Board 1987 moved the freshmen in under the ever-present Grove City rain clouds, but no one seemed to mind. For the next week all were very busy with dances, picnics, assemblies, and games.

The Post Chapel Experience is one of the highlights of the OB 'season.' The P.C.E. is an ice cream social and variety show with the OB members as the performers. Used as an icebreaker, it is the first time that OB and the freshmen are together for a time of fun and socializing.

Another highlight is the Beach Party. This year's party was enhanced with new decorations. In the spring Orientation Board members were surprised to find that most of the decorations for the Beach Party had been destroyed. Many OBers spent late nights rebuilding the decorations before the school year ended.

The playing of the Co-Rec games was a time for freshmen and OBers alike to be rowdy and release some of that tension of college life. For these mock-olympic games, each freshman was assigned to a country with a team of OB leaders. The Grove City rain was again present, but that did not dampen the enthusiasm of the athletes. The winner of the 1987 Co-Rec games was Chile. The members of the winning team received a "World Tour" teeshirt.

The Freshman Class Talent Show ends the season for Orientation Board in October. The show is an opportunity for the freshmen to express their talents and perform in front of the student body. The performers are judged and three places are given. The winner of the 1987 show was singer Elise Ecrement.

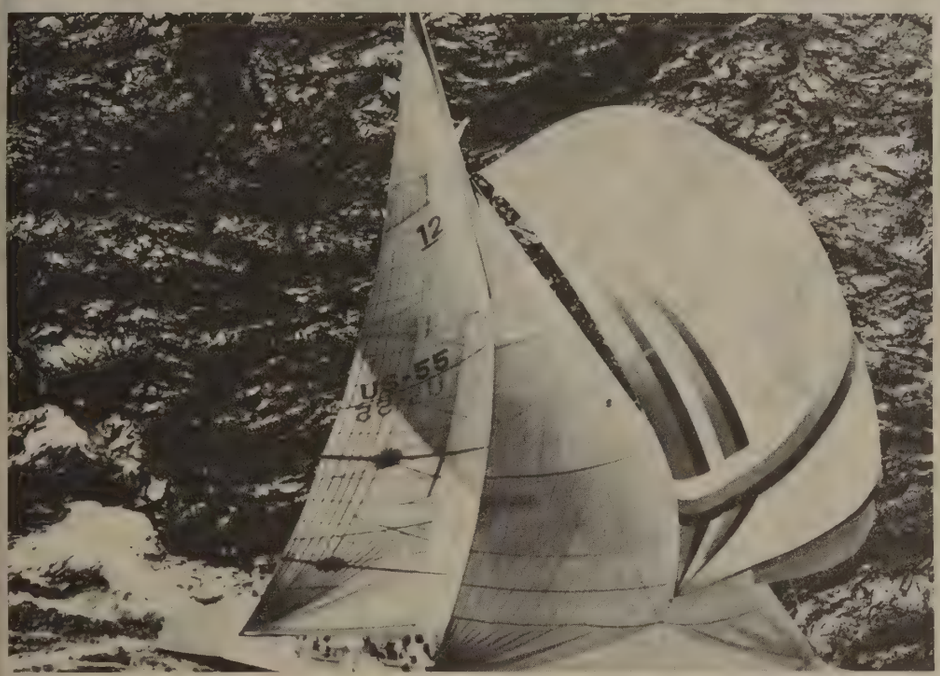

Orientation Board 1987 was proud to welcome the new Dean of Men, Mr. Kenneth Hadley, as its administrative advisor. Kellie Gibbons was the student chairman. She had this to say about the overall success of OB '87, "I think the reason OB was such a success is that we had an excellent committee."

Sports Highlights

Dennis Conner, the man who lost the America's Cup in 1983, won it back four years later. The Stars & Stripes completed a 4-0 sweep over Australia's Kookaburra III in the race that took place in Australia.

Kirby Puckett and Jeff Raerdon of the Minnesota Twins celebrate their World Series victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Twins won the seventh and final game of the series 4-2.

A 24-day strike by the NFL players ended in mid-October when the union capitulated and went to court instead of trying to fight the club owners at the bargaining table.

Summit Meeting

A 169 page document was the center of the 1987 summit held in Washington D. C. between the United States and the Soviet Union. It is called the Treaty Between the United States of America and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics on the Elimination of Their Intermediate-Range and Shorter-Range Missiles. The treaty called for the elimination of an entire category of atomic weapons. The nations of the world watched as Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev, the leaders of the two most powerful nations, met to discuss arms control.

To tell you the truth, this author heard more of the tensions between Nancy Reagan and Raisa Gorbachev. I do admit that I did not see the news every night or even at all before, during, and after the summit. But, what came to my mind when asked to write an article about the Reagan/Gorbachev summit was not Ronald and Mikhail but Nancy and Raisa. The nation became enthralled with the more intimate relations between the two first families. There were many handshakes and laughs. The President and Mr. Gorbachev appeared to get along well from the beginning. They would crack jokes as if part of a comedy routine. Mr. Gorbachev also hit it off with the American public. He and Mrs. Gorbachav turned on the charm for the media. Both were able to enter the hearts and homes of many people.

No great breakthroughs were made due to this summit and no reformations of ideologies took place, but the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. began to break down walls and try to understand each other. Time magazine stated, "the summit was not so much a triumph of a Reagan revolution in foreign policy as it was a return of the principles of detente: a reduction of tensions between the two superpowers and a recognition that arms control is the focal point of relations between the two countries."
The 1987 Washington summit will not be remembered for its decisions on arms control, but it will be remembered because it, as President Reagan said, "lit the sky with hope for all people of goodwill."

Stadium Concerts

Some rock bands in the 80's have become so popular that when they tour they require the use of multipurpose stadiums to accommodate the size of the audience. Most of these concert stadiums hold over 60,000 people, and with today's high-tech audio systems, music can be mastered to sound just like the album. The Beetles were the first rock band to use a stadium for a concert. During their tenure in rock they played at Shea Stadium in New York. The audience could barely hear them but they loved it.

This year there have been three concerts in stadiums close to Grove City. These were: Genesis, Pink Floyd, and U2. Many students from Grove City College attended these concerts and had a great time.

Genesis played in front of over 60,000 people in Three Rivers Stadium last May. The band consists of drummer/singer Phil Collins, bassist/guitarist Mike Rutherford, and keyboardist Tony Banks. Songs from their latest album, Invisible Touch, were performed such as: Invisible Touch, Tonight Tonight Tonight, Land of Confusion, and Throwin' It All Away. Older songs from Genesis along with Phil Collins solo, and Mike and the Mechanics songs were played.

Pink Floyd performed on September 16 and 17 in front of 140,000 fans at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. The new Floyd, without Roger Waters, includes: David Gilmour on guitar and vocals, Nick Mason on drums, and Richard Wright on keyboards. They played their new hit Learning to Fly along with old smashes like Money, Another Brick in the Wall, and Comfortably Numb. The pig was back from the Animals tour along with the crashing airplane and a spectacular laser show.

On October 13, many students from GCC saw the world's hottest band, U2, in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. The Joshua Tree, the bands most successful album was featured on the cover of Time magazine last spring. Band members are Bono-vocals, The Edge-guitar/keyboards, Adam Clayton-bass, and Larry Mullen - drums. U2 played new chart smashers like Bullet the Blue Sky, I Still Haven't Found What I'm Lookin' For, and With or Without You, along with old greats like Sunday Bloody Sunday, Pride in the Name of Love, and New Year's Day.

Concerts held in stadiums add to the musical feel of each band. But, only the best can cut it. The cost of having a stadium concert is considerable compared with the typical arena show. In the future it will be nice to see other bands play in the crazy atmosphere the stadium produces.

New Uniforms

The news was out. The Grove City College Wolverine Marching Band was going to have a new look. The funds had been set aside and the design had been chosen for new uniforms. Before they went home for the summer, band members were measured for uniform size. Over the summer the uniforms were to be sewn and shipped to GCC, so they would be ready when the band members arrived for band camp in the fall.

Band camp arrived, but no uniforms. Dr. Arnold explained that the wrong fabric had been used in the uniforms and so there was going to be a slight delay until they were sewn with the correct materials. The uniforms were to be shipped in time for the first football game. However, once again there was a delay and no uniforms arrived in time for the game. The uniform company shipped red T-shirts to accommodate the band until the uniforms could be shipped.

More time went by and more football games came and went with the band in their red T-shirts and old band slacks, but no new uniforms. Homecoming was quickly approaching and Dr. Arnold and the band were getting impatient about those new uniforms that were beginning to be more like a myth than a reality. The question was whether the band would have their new look for Homecoming or not.

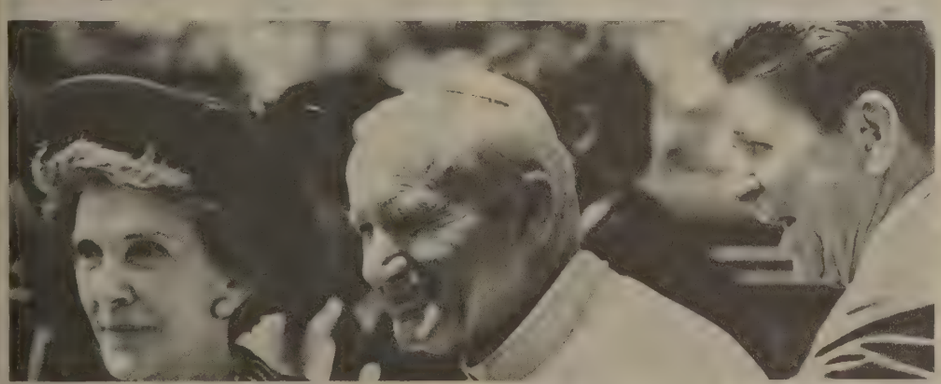

Dr. Arnold got the job accomplished. He made arrangements to meet the delivery truck at the intersection of two major highways in Ohio where he would load up the long-awaited-for uniforms into a rented truck to bring them to Grove City College for Homecoming festivities which were the next day. The plan worked and Saturday morning band members arrived early to pick up their uniforms. Surprise! None of them seemed to fit. Everyone cooperated, and soon everyone had a uniform which with the help of pins and suspenders was presentable. And so, at last, the Grove City College Marching Wolverines had their new look as they marched down through campus to the parade line-up. It was well worth the wait.

Pope John Paul II Visits The U.S.A.

Pope John Paul II with the Reagans.

How does one write an article small enough for a yearbook page yet, large enough to give justice to one of the most important visitors the United States has hosted in the last decade? The visitor was Pope John Paul II, the head of the Catholic Church. He began his nine city tour on September 10th and completed it on September 19th. These nine cities were Miami, Florida; Columbia, South Carolina; New Orleans, Louisiana; San Antonio and Phoenix, Arizona; Los Angeles, Monterey, and San Francisco, California; and Detroit, Michigan.

Pope John Paul did not only come to speak to the Roman Catholics of the United States, but to those of other religions as well. He spoke with American Jewish leaders in Miami, with leaders of Non-Catholic churches in Columbia, and in Los Angeles the Pope spoke with members of the Islam, Jewish, Buddhist and Hindu faiths. He also met with members of the Catholic faith of various ethnic backgrounds.

The Pontiff addressed problems facing the Catholic Church in the U.S.A. Two of these were priest celibacy and women in the church. Each of these issues have been sparked by the shortage of priests in the United States. On several occasions he stressed the unity of the Church. At a closed meeting in Los Angeles, the most important part of his trip, the Pope heard of the discord in the church from Catholic bishops. The Pope emphasized the need to accept all of the Church's teachings in order to be considered a good Catholic.

In only ten days, the Pope visited with many people of many different backgrounds, addressed important issues facing the Catholic Church and the world, and touched the hearts of all who came in contact with him. Pope John Paul II 1987 tour of the United States will be remembered and discussed for years to come.

Triumphs

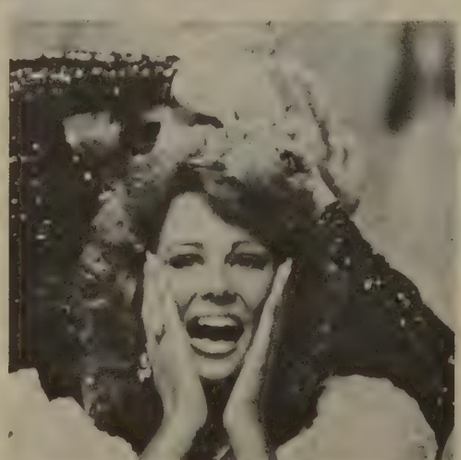

Two of the top entertainers of the year were Whitney Houston and Madonna.

President and Nancy Reagan wave to well-wishers from the South Portico of the White House. Reagan escorted his wife back from the Bethesda Naval Hospital where she underwent breast cancer surgery.

Miss Michigan, Kaye Lani Rae Rafko, a nurse who shook up the talent competition with a Polynesian dance, was crowned Miss America 1988.

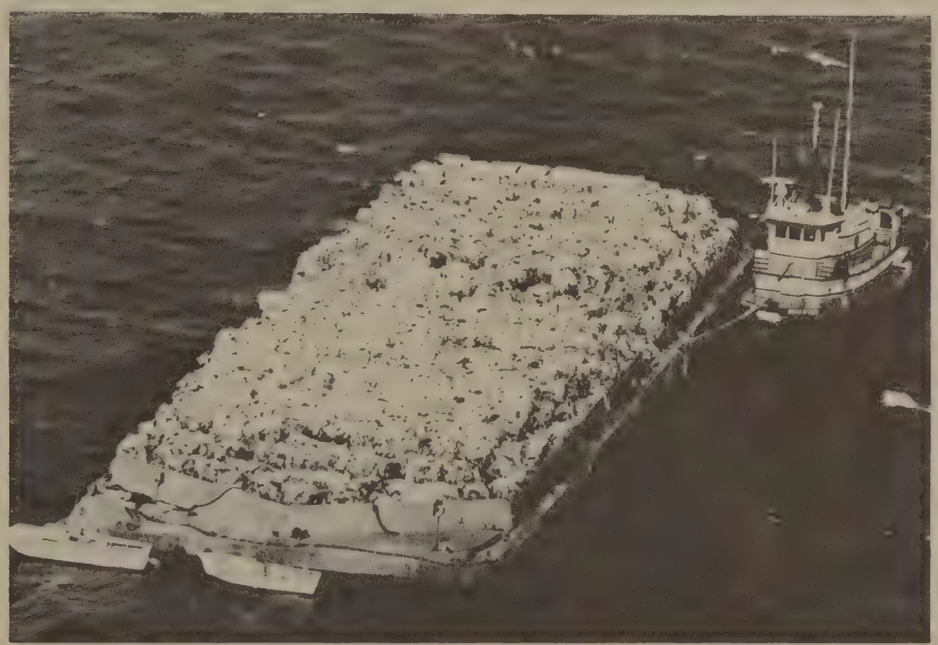

The Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco celebrated its 50th birthday. About 250,000 people jammed onto the bridge for an anniversary walk across the span. Another 500,000 packed the bridge approaches.

Disappointments

An earthquake measuring 6.1 on the Richter scale hit Southern California in October. It was not a catastrophic quake, but the damage was extensive.

A barge filled with 3,128 tons of garbage became a national joke and a symbol of the nation's worsening problem with solid waste management. The barge, looking for a place to dump its cargo, was banned by six states and three foreign countries before an incinerator reduced it to ash.

In the six years since Americans first heard of a mysterious immunity-robbing disease from which no one recovers, AIDS has killed nearly 25,000 Americans, millions of dollars have poured into medical research and President Reagan has proclaimed the plague "Public Health Enemy No. 1."

Shepherds Or Lost Sheep?

The Christian Church has been a guiding light to believers for nearly two thousand years. Whether Catholic, Protestant, or Pentecostal, the faithful most often look to priests, pastors, and other church leaders to minister to their needs. These men and women are sometimes mistakenly exalted as being morally superior, but they are still human beings and prone to error. In 1987 and 1988, the Assemblies of God were rocked by two instances where those who were looked upon as shepherds of the flock of believers were revealed to be lost sheep.

The first and most publicized scandal began on March 20, 1987, when Jessica Hahn, a church secretary from Long Island, New York, revealed her involvement with Jim Bakker, head of the PTL ministry in Fort Mill, South Carolina. Hahn was raised Catholic, but she was attracted to the Pentecostal church in her early teens and spent most of her free time working for the church. In 1980, she was invited to a PTL telethon in Florida by John Fletcher, another PTL minister. While there she was sexually abused by Bakker and Fletcher in a hotel room, and she accepted a $265,000 settlement for her silence.

This exposure of Bakker's moral sin was only the beginning of revelations that eventually toppled the PTL. Bakker resigned from the PTL ministry on March 20 and was later defrocked by the Assemblies of God. Jerry Falwell, a fundamentalist minister, took control of the PTL but soon stepped down as its leader. The PTL, which stands for "Praise the Lord" or "People that Love," is a Pentecostal group which practices faith healing and speaking in tongues and is incompatible with Falwell's Fundamentalist principals.

Bakker and his wife, Tammy, wanted to return to their ministry at PTL but were not permitted due to PTL's questionable financial transactions while under their leadership. Jim Bakker's pattern of plundering the PTL's treasury for his own personal uses had been watched by the IRS for several years. Finances were grossly mismanaged; there were no mechanisms for internal audits, no checks and balances for financial accountability, and no receipts or other devices for keeping track of incoming and outgoing cash. During the final months of Bakker's ministry, PTL received $4.2 million in cash each month and spent $7.2 million.

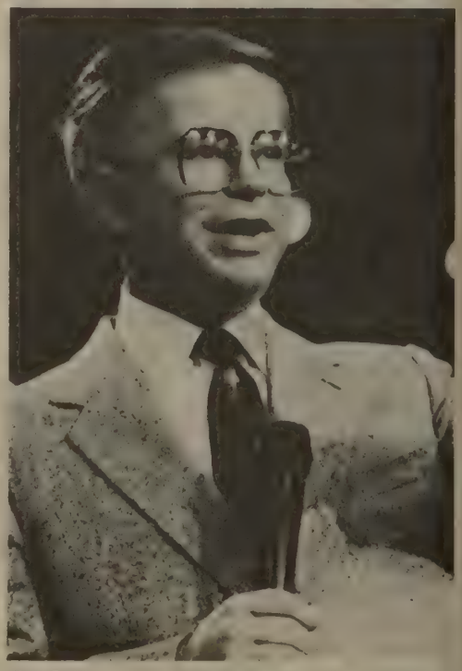

Since only Bakker and a few top executives had an overall picture of PTL's finances, it was not difficult for him to embezzle funds for his personal use. By using expense accounts to pad his income, Bakker siphoned off PTL funds to pay for his own personal assets. Some of his excesses paid for out of the ministry's treasury include six luxurious homes with gold-plated bathroom fixtures and an air-conditioned doghouse.

Officials searched for possible criminal tax fraud, wire fraud, and mail fraud, and PTL formally filed for bankruptcy on June 12, 1987. The $203 million empire created by Jim and Tammy Bakker included a television ministry and a theme park called Heritage, USA. The Bakkers' excessive spending of PTL revenues threw the entire ministry $68 million in debt. Bankruptcy judge Rufus Reynolds rejected a plan to reorganize PTL under the protection of the bankruptcy laws because it did not sufficiently protect PTL's creditors. However, the court ruled that $180 million in donations from "Lifetime Partners" represent true equity ownership, and members of Bakker's flock may thus regain control of the organization.

A second incident involved evangelist Jimmy Swaggart, who is noted for his harsh denunciations of the sins of others and who influenced the Assemblies of God to defrock Jim Bakker. A Pentecostal minister from Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Swaggart has been involved in several legal disputes. Like the Bakkers, he has been accused of using ministry money from his 4300 member local church, television shows, preaching tours, and his Bible college for his own personal uses. Swaggart voluntarily stepped down from the pulpit on February 21, 1988 after a New Orleans prostitute revealed that he had paid her to pose nude on several occasions. The Pentecostal leader made public confession of his moral sins. The Assemblies of God defrocked Swaggart and ordered him to one year suspension and two years rehabilitation, but he resigned from the church on April 8, because he was no longer in good standing.

Evangelism is big business for men like Jim Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart: the revenues of their ministries were $129 and $142 million, respectively. The success of a ministry of this type is almost always determined by the personality of a single individual; there is always temptation to abuse this power and there are often accompanying secrets. Since 1980, there has been a sharp decline in the popularity of television "big-business" evangelists, and all have been hit hard by the recent PTL scandal. The secretive one-man rules of these evangelists probably will not change, however, since their popularity rests with their personalities. The flock of believers will continue to see these ministers as their shepherds. In an interview with People Weekly, Jessica Hahn says of Jim Bakker: "God chose him to preach. He was a gifted man. At one time he was an Excellent preacher. He went off the track." Although she greatly respects Bakker as a preacher, she continues, saying, "The biggest mistake of my Christian life was worshipping ministers instead of worshipping God."

Old and new actives dress in the old outfits.

Sisters stick together.

No More Pledging

How do you promote a unity so strong between a group of people that they call themselves sisters or brothers? From the beginning of the formation of sororities and fraternities, these special organizations have used a tool they called "pledging." Although the content of pledging differed between each group, the end effect was the same. The embarrassing, silly acts, greeting actives, physical exercise, and other traditional rituals that promoted togetherness and trust within the pledge classes resulted in loyalty to one another and everlasting friendship.

However, on February 12, 1987, the state of Pennsylvania passed what is called the Anti-Hazing Law. This law makes any form of hazing, which is defined as the act of "forcing a person to do ridiculous or painful things, as in initiation," against the law. Thus, with the adoption of the law, all the sororities and fraternities lost the right to practice traditional pledging procedures. The term "pledging" had to be removed from every constitution, and was also expected to be removed from the campus vocabulary. As would be expected, the students are not in favor of the law, and are desperately trying to create new traditions that will have the same overall effect that pledging had-friendship worthy of the title sisterhood or brotherhood.

Now, instead of a pledge period, the "new actives" go through a period called "Going Active Days" and are therefore called "gads." This year, and some to follow, will be trial periods when sororities and fraternities try to create new traditions. Committees are being formed within the groups to decide what "gad" activities will include. Two sororities, Sigma Theta Chi and Phi Sigma Chi, chose not to take a fall class this year, hoping the extra time would enable them to form durable and lawful "gad" procedures.

Has this law changed the meaning of sororities and fraternities at Grove City College? This question can probably not be answered until the old pledging traditions are forgotten and the new ones are accepted.

Guest Lecture Series

The Guest Lecture Series annually brings scholars from various fields to the campus. The 1987-88 series included the Education Editor of the New York Times, the Chairman of the Biology department at Bethel College, several newspaper columnists and reporters, a political diplomat, and a Soviet dissident. Furthermore, most of the lecturers have written at least one book in their field.

Faith and Life Week 1987 featured the Reverend Mr. Bill Butterworth. His program, "How to Really Love God," attracted standing-room-only crowds in Harbison Chapel. The Staley Lecturer, Dr. Richard H. Bube, discussed "Modern Science and Christian Choices." Both lecturers emphasized that you must take an active part in something to make it happen. "This includes," they said, "God's love."

The Pew Memorial Lecturer, Mr. J. Peter Grace, addressed "the Problem of Big Government." His speech analyzed the U.S. economy in an attempt to encourage steps to rectify economic problems.

The main lecture series began with Mr. Gene Antonio who spoke on what he considers the AIDS cover-up. Mr. Edward B. Fiske continued the series with his address, "The Liberal Arts in a Changing World." A popular topic of discussion at Grove City College, "Government Intervention and Individual Freedom," was the next lecture, delivered by Dr. Walter E. Williams.

Dr. Vladimir Sakharov, a Soviet-trained diplomat, spoke on the Soviet-American rivalry. He answered questions about life in the Soviet Union and why he left his family. The conclusion of the series was given by Mr. Norman Podhoretz who talked on the "Fraudulence of Arms Control."

"The right of the people to be secure." U.S. Constitution

Looking forward to one, two, or three more years, the underclassmen await 1988-89. The juniors anticipate their "Senior Year" with interviews, an average of 32 chapel cards, and those last precious moments. Sophomores are ready for more responsibilities, and the class that must be most excited is the freshmen. They are no longer the youngest people on campus, and in past years it meant they no longer had to wear beanies.

As each person progresses through college, they do more: homework, organizations, honoraries, intramural sports, and other activities. Richard Bassett held many positions through his lifetime. Mr. Bassett was one of the five delegates from Delaware to the Constitutional Convention. He was a calvary captain in the Revolutionary War, served in the United States Senate from 1789-93, and became state govenor. Richard Bassett made no speeches at the Constitutional Convention and was present at all but nine days. He was a strong silent type.

Richard Bassett sets an example that GCC underclassmen and everyone should follow; go, be quiet, and learn. Success is in the future for each person, but you must reach for it.

The Jefferson Memorial.

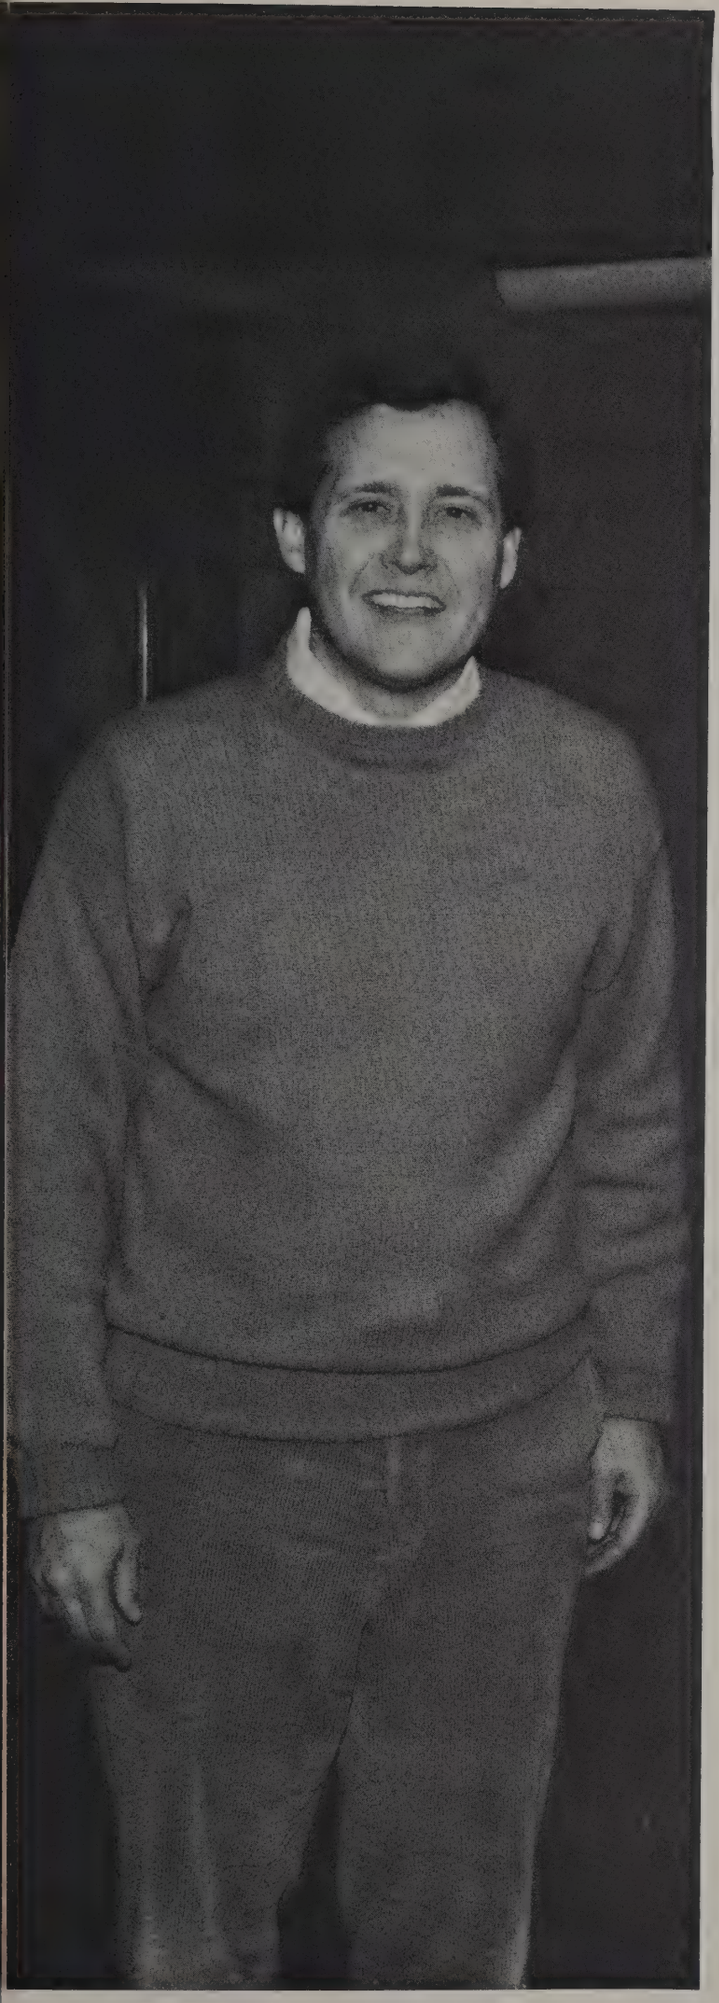

The Professors liked to have fun in 1976 and still do.

Jailing a baby, you two are a bad influence.

Faculty

"All Legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States . . . " U.S. Constitution

They guide and shape our lives. Who are they? The faculty, administration, and staff of Grove City College. These people open their homes and their lives to each student. They have seen many classes come and go, but each year they look forward to new faces and friends.

For four years these professors help guide and shape our lives. Benjamin Franklin also helped shape, not lives, but this country at the Constitutional Convention. A representative from Pennsylvania, Franklin was the convention's mediator. He was a self-educated man who worked as a printer, publisher and writer, and served as a minister to France. His counsel at the Constitutional Convention was that "we are here to consult, not to contend."

Just as Franklin and the other delegates at the Constitutional Convention were there to consult, so are the professors at Grove City College. They are there for each student for any problem.

What are you two smiling about?!

This was high fashion in 1968?!

The United States Supreme Court.

The Grove City College Book Store is the most frequented shop by students.

Community

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."
U.S. Constituton

The proprieters of Grove City's businesses help keep the students of Grove City College happy. Convenient hours, free delivery, and prompt service encourage students to frequent their shops.

As a businessman in Flanders, Maryland, Daniel Carroll also enjoyed serving customers. Mr. Carroll was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. He and four others represented the state of Maryland. Daniel Carroll was very active, not only in the community, but also in the state and nation. He was president of the state senate, signed the Articles of Confederation, served in the house of Representatives, and helped to establish the District of Columbia.

Daniel Carroll and Grove City's businessmen are helpful and respected. Whether in Flanders or Grove City, merchants are an important part of the community and the college.

A scene from one of the many fine shops in Grove City.

How does one express all the thanks they feel to all those who did big and little things to help one out? That is my dilemma as I finish The 1988 Bridge. So many did so much, I wish there were room to list all the particulars. Space, however, is limited so I extend to each of you my thanks.

My junior year has been spent with the yearbook first and everything else second. And, I would not have had it any other way. This book proves to me that I can do anything I set my mind to as long as I have some good friends to back me up.

There are a few I feel deserve special recognition. My special thanks goes to:

God-for giving me strength and love

My Mom-for giving me the idea for the theme, for encouraging me every step of the way, for being there whenever I needed you-I love you, I hope you are as proud as I am

My Sisters-for smiling, for helping me over vacations, for everything

Sharon-for giving up our room to the yearbook, for being there to calm me down when things got tense, for helping me through those mental blocks, and I could go on forever but I just thank you for being my roommate and best friend

Jack-for finding the funds, for helping sort things our when it all got confused, for being a friend

Anne and Heather-for being the best suite mates, for drawing squares at all hours, for reminding me how precious friends are

Darin-for the special pictures, for helping me out in a pinch, for all your good advise

The Bridge Staff-for coming every Wednesday to listen to me say "I need . . . " and doing it

Mr. McKee-for saying "No problem" when I really needed to hear it, for always finding time for me (even in the middle of breakfast)

Mr. Smith-for all your sports pictures and articles

Linda and Cindy-for not cringing when you saw me coming, for answering my questions when the boss was out, for all your time and help

Larry-for being so enthusiastic, for making each of my dreams become a reality, for everything possible and impossible!

Thanks,
Angela Krysiak
Editor-in-Chief

These men worked all over Grove City College campus putting in the new phone system.

The beginnings of the new phone system.

Old Traditions New Ideas

Dreams create new tomorrows.

There are old traditions that will be carried forward for many years. New ideas are becoming the traditions of tomorrow. But, tomorrow forever holds new dreams and new ideas.

The Constitution of the United States will always be a stronghold for this nation; just as Grove City College will always be a firmament for those who graduate from here. New interpretations of the Constitution will bring changes. Yet, the preamble will always assure us by its words:

> We, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Grove City College will be forever changing and improving with the times. The Christian emphasis, however, will always be present.

Dreams are what make tomorrows. Let the new ideas bring about new traditions, and let the old traditions stand true.
